HOOVER SPEAKS IN DES MOINES ON OCTOBER 4

To Outline Farm Policy in Hurried Trip to Midwest.

WILL NOT MAKE ANY ADDRESSES EN ROUTE

Talk on Financial Policies Later in Month Likely in New York.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

President Hoover will carry his campaign into the West early next month with an address on farm policy at Des Moines, Iowa, on the evening of October 4.

This decision, announced yesterday by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, confirms the original plan of the Chief Executive to limit his personal part in the campaign to three or four addresses on vital phases of the economic situation and the Republican reconstruction program.

The trip to the Iowa capital will be a hurried one, and no speaking appearances have been planned for the President en route, Mr. Sanders said.

The Des Moines address, the first since the formal notification ceremonies here on August 11, will be broadcast over a Nation-wide radio hook-up.

No Addresses En Route.

"The President will return immediately to Washington after his speech," Chairman Sander's announcement continued. "He will make no other addresses en route. Time and place of other addresses by the President have not yet been arranged."

The Middlewestern address has been on the President's schedule for several weeks. Mr. Hoover at first desired to outline his agricultural program at his native town of West Branch, Iowa, where he delivered a similar address in the 1928 campaign. The choice of a more populous center is understood to have been dictated by the superior facilities for transportation and broadcasting.

Under present plans, the farm appeal in Iowa will be followed by an address on industrial and financial policies somewhere in the East about mid-October. This address probably will be delivered from New York City.

Campaign Effort Spurned.

Apparently the suggestion of some of the President's political advisers—that he set out upon an extended speaking tour has been vetoed. Meanwhile, however, the campaign effort throughout the country is being stepped up appreciably through intensification of the various State drives, and through a more aggressive employment of the national headliners of the party.

Vice President Curtis left Washington last night on a speaking tour which will take him to the Pacific Coast. Secretary of War Hurley will leave tonight for Chicago, where he is scheduled to address a Republican rally tomorrow evening. Next week

Bogota Mob Raids Reds' Newspaper

Government Rejects Offer of Peru to Settle Leticia Dispute.

Bogota, Colombia, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Charging unpatriotic publications during the "Leticia affair," a mob invaded the offices of the Communist newspaper, Tierra, destroyed furniture and seized and burned copies of the paper. There were no casualties.

More than 3,000 women paraded through the streets of the capital today singing the national anthem while the lower house was passing on second reading the measure authorizing the government to arrange a credit of $10,000,000 for national defense. Third reading will come tomorrow.

Earlier in the day it was officially stated that the Colombia government has refused to accept a Peruvian proposal for a settlement of the controversy over occupation of the port city of Leticia by Peruvians.

Flying Family Lands At Eriboll, Scotland

Aberdeen, Scotland, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The Hutchinson family, who, with their crew of four, were rescued from the bleak Greenland coast after wrecking their transatlantic plane recently, landed at Eriboll, Scotland, today from the steam trawler, Lord Talbot.

George Hutchinson, his wife and two small children were all well, although the two girls appeared to be tired. The party was taken by motor to Lairg. They are en route back to New York.

Hoover Urges Reich Not to Leave Parley

Says U. S. Is Aloof From German Demand for Arms Equality.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday declared America aloof from the German demands now reverberating in Europe for equality in armaments, but simultaneously expressed a hope that Germany would alter her announced purpose of withdrawing from the Geneva arms conference.

In a formal statement, the President said he spoke "with reference to press dispatches from Paris on the German arms question."

Monday dispatches told of Ambassador Edge and Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, informing Premier Herriot that the people of this country believed Germany's demands inopportune.

The Chief Executive, in his brief announcement, said the position of the United States upon the problem was entirely clear.

"The sole question in which this country is interested," he said, "is in reducing armaments of the whole world, step by step. We are not a party to the Versailles Treaty and its limitation on German arms. That is solely a European question. The United States has already declared that it takes no part in that discussion.

HUGH R. WILSON.

"We are anxious that Germany shall continue to participate in the arms conference which has now such promise of progress for the entire world, and that she shall lend her aid in this great purpose."

The Paris press reports to which Mr. Hoover referred quoted "authoritative American sources" as understanding that Senator Reed and Ambassador Edge had informed the French premier that the American

TRAPPED ON ROOF, 3 MEN ARE SEIZED

Police Seeking Ransackers of Two Buildings Arrest Trio Nearby.

Trapped on the roof of the H. J. Heinz Provision Co., at 2101 Fifth street northeast, last night three men who said they were from Philadelphia, were arrested by police of the Fifth Precinct.

On the alert for men, who earlier in the night had forced entrance to the warehouse of the Bramhall Food Products Co., Tenth and Girard streets northeast, and Hart & Crouse Co., distributors for the Utica Radiator Corporation, Ninth and Girard streets northeast, police were quick to answer a call from the Heinz plant.

Arthur Trussel, watchman for Barber and Ross, hardware warehouse, adjoining the Heinz Co., told officers responding to his call he had heard someone break a window in Heinz Co., and apparently they were still inside.

Policemen W. J. King, F. R. Rabil and W. B. Kuhns started a search of the building. Rabil, who went to the roof, discovered two men hiding in a dark corner. He called for aid, but the men surrendered peaceably.

An investigation of the building disclosed an office safe had been broken open, and another one tampered with. Police said the men apparently fled to the roof after hearing the officers in the building.

A large assortment of tools was said to have been found in their possession. A third man was found later by Policeman King, hiding on the opposite side of the roof.

Earlier in the night passersby noted a door of the Bramhall Co., standing open. Police were summoned and found an attempt had been made to break open a safe. A large hole had been torn in a wall separating the storage plant from the office.

Further investigation in the neighborhood disclosed a cellar window in Hart & Crouse Co. had been broken. The place was found ransacked.

The arrested men said they were Charles W. Bowes, 35, his brother, Arthur C. Bowes, 30, and Marino N. Caporelli, 27. They said they arrived in Washington early last night.

ROOSEVELT URGES PARLEY ON ORIENT

Tells Seattle Crowd Action Is Needed to Stimulate Buying Power.

Civic Auditorium, Seattle, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Speaking to a crowd that jammed the huge Civic Auditorium here and overflowed into an adjoining baseball park, Franklin D. Roosevelt proposed tonight that an international conference be held to counteract the effect of "abnormal depreciation of the buying power of Oriental countries."

The crowd started filing into the auditorium more than three hours before the time set for the Democratic presidential nominee to speak, and two hours before Mr. Roosevelt arrived every seat in the auditorium was filled. Hundreds were packed into the entrances, in addition to those who had been given preferred seats on the speakers' platform.

Thousands of others were seated in the chilly bleachers in the baseball park outside. The park had been equipped with an amplifying system, so that they might hear.

After discussing the tariff in a general way, Mr. Roosevelt told the crowd that on the Pacific Coast "trade with the Orient has suffered to some extent on account of tariffs, but it also has suffered because of

Prosecutor in Maschke Fraud Case Threatened

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—A series of letters threatening him with bodily harm if he continues to prosecute the $177,000 county treasury embezzlement cases against Maurice Maschke, head of the Republican forces in Cleveland, and five others, has been received by County Prosecutor P. L. A. Leighley, it was revealed in court here today as guards were placed about the prosecution chief.

Maschke and Councilman Herman H. Finkle, Henry A. Beckerman, former deputy treasurer; Alex Bernstein, Herman Felsman, and Charles Bernstein, are now on trial for the embezzlement.

Col. Grant Defends Park Board System at Session

Opposes Economy Plan Suggested by Louis Brownlow, Former District Commissioner, at Government Parley; Hoover Sends Message of Greeting.

Contradictory views on the administration of parks were expressed by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, and Louis Brownlow, former District Commissioner, at last night's dinner session of the National Government Conference at the Willard Hotel.

Col. Grant, who as toastmaster, was an unscheduled speaker, came to the defense of the separate park board system after Mr. Brownlow had completed an address in which he advocated unification of park boards with other municipal bodies as a necessary economy measure.

Mr. Brownlow, director of the Public Administration Clearing House in Chicago, spoke in favor of an advisory board taking the place of an administrative one as a guarantee of increased efficiency and a prevention of waste.

Col. Grant declared that cases where park administrative boards have been done away with have proved themselves unsuccessful. He expressed the opinion that the separate commission has grown up actually as a matter of experience. He observed that in Washington members on different boards are peculiarly fitted to their functions and expressly interested in the job to be done.

A plea for better local governments as a means of cutting down expenses, rather than economizing in services that need building up, was made by Murray Seasongood, former Mayor of Cincinnati and president of the National Municipal League. He attacked the tendency to cut down services such as health, education and recre-

PINCHOT FAILS TO GET HOOVER AID ON RELIEF

Request for Conference on Funds for State Is Declined.

AUTHORITY TO ORDER ACTION DISCLAIMED

President Says Board Will Act in Spirit of Law to Relieve Distress.

(Associated Press.)

By telegram, President Hoover yesterday turned aside Gov. Pinchot's request for a personal conference on the $10,000,000 relief loan sought by Pennsylvania, from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Making no mention of the governor's proposal for a conference Friday, the President told Pinchot he had no authority to direct the corporation to make the loans. White House aids said no appointment was made.

"The board," Mr. Hoover wired Pinchot, "is a nonpartisan body of eminent, patriotic and sympathetic men. They are engaged in unceasing investigation of every application. They are giving earnest and full consideration to information supplied to them and endeavoring to extend every aid to distress and proved need within their authority. I am sure you will find they will act fully in this spirit."

Pinchot Silent on Rebuff.

On receipt of this message in Harrisburg, Pinchot refused to discuss it, saying to all questions:

"I have no comment to make tonight."

In his own telegram to the President earlier in the day, the Pennsylvania Governor complained that the Reconstruction Corporation had failed to act upon his request for an immediate loan of $10,000,000 as the first installment on a $45,000,000 advance, the maximum allowed any State.

The corporation's board replied to the original Pennsylvania request, that the State had not exhausted its resources in providing for the unemployed, and that until more was done the loan would not be made. Since that time a special session of the State Legislature has enacted a sales tax, estimated to provide between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 of relief funds. Still there was no action, the corporation saying some additional statistics were needed.

Governor's Telegram.

The governor's telegram said:

"After two months of constant effort to get help for Pennsylvania's 1,250,000 totally unemployed and their wives and children, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation still persists in its cruel, needless and unexplained refusal to advance what Pennsylvania has every right to ask and to get.

"The Reconstruction Finance Corporation showed complete inability or complete unwillingness to realize the situation in Pennsylvania and the pitiful need for help. Tens of thousands of families are living on $2 a week or less, and the need for relief grows greater day by day. • • •

"Last Friday Pennsylvania complied in full with the latest demand of the R. F. C., for useless statistics. If

Chicago Gang Foe Is Target of Bomb

Two Pedestrians Are Badly Hurt and McGoorty's Home Is Damaged.

Chicago, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—John P. McGoorty, former chief justice of the municipal court and militant foe of organized crime, narrowly escaped death tonight when a powerful dynamite bomb was exploded in front of his home. Two passers-by were seriously injured by the blast.

Windows of the house were shattered, and a gaping hole was torn in the sidewalk. Judge McGoorty, his wife, two daughters, Elizabeth and Margaret, and his son, Robert, were in the living room of the two-story house when the bomb was hurled.

After the blast McGoorty rushed outside and found Wilber Koetten and Ada Moyer, both 16, badly injured. Koetten's foot was mangled and the girl was suffering from severe lacerations about the body. They were rushed to a hospital by Robert McGoorty, who commandeered a passing automobile.

Bandits in New Jersey Get $6,000 From Bank

Florence, N. J., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Three robbers held up the First National Bank of Florence today and fled with money, estimated at $6,000, after locking employes of the institution in the vault.

MANY AT WEDDING OF JOAN M'DONALD

Prime Minister's Daughter, Bride of Dr. Mackinnon Greeted by Crowds.

Wendover, Buckinghamshire, Eng., Sept. 20 (U.P.).—Joan MacDonald, second daughter of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, and Dr. Alastair Mackinnon, whom she met while studying medicine at Edinburgh, were married today at the Scottish Congregational Chapel here.

Crowds of country folk gathered outside the little church to mingle with members of British society as the prime minister gave his daughter in marriage.

The Presbyterian ceremony was employed as the couple stood in front of a bare communion table. Miss MacDonald promised to love and cherish her husband, but the word "obey" was not used. Mackinnon placed extra emphasis on his vow, saying "Yes, I will!" rather than the usual "I will."

The Laborite premier's daughter made a charming bride in white. She bought a large part of her trousseau—not an elaborate one—in Edinburgh while her father was on his recent vacation at Lossiemouth.

A Scottish air was given the wedding when two bagpipers, in kilts, made their appearance and marched with the prime minister and the bride during the procession to the chapel.

It was learned also that friends presented Miss Isabel MacDonald with a pair of green garters in accordance with a Scottish custom which prescribes such a gift to older, unmarried sisters of a bride.

Among the gifts the bride received was a brooch from King George and Queen Mary, engraved with their monograms.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the prime minister's country home at Chequers, 5 miles from the chapel.

2 Arkansas Banks Robbed by Outlaws

Total Loot $9,000; Clerk of One Institution Kidnaped but Freed.

Huttig, Ark., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Two bandits robbed the First National Bank of Huttig of funds estimated at $3,000 today and kidnaped Mason Tucker, a clerk, but released him a few blocks away. A posse of citizens and officers traveling in automobiles chased the robbers' car out of town and followed it toward Marion, La. Last May the bank was held up and looted of $3,900.

Gravette, Ark., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Four bandits overpowered and bound a night watchman, blasted open a vault in the First National Bank with explosives stolen from a nearby hardware store and fled in a truck with $6,000 and a 5-ton safe early today.

As the watchman, John Mitchman, was eating his lunch soon after midnight, two bandits crawled out on a roof across the street and covered him with guns.

Reports from Gentry, a nearby town, said they were seen there and Sheriff Edgar Fields led a posse in search. Advices from Bentonville later said the posse had crossed the State line into Oklahoma on the trail of the bandits.

New Forest Fire Peril Is Faced in Colorado

Boulder, Colo., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Forest firefighters faced a battle on a new sector tonight when alarming reports reached Boulder of a blaze in the Middle St. Vrain region north of here. The fire, burning on both sides of the Middle St. Vrain, was reported to have destroyed 1,600 acres of timberland over an area a mile wide and 3 miles long.

As rapidly as they could be spared, crews were sent from the Nederland-Tolland fire, now believed to be under control, to the new blaze. Sheriff Robert V. Blum and District Forester Allen S. Peck said 200 men had been sent to the scene.

Brooklyn Races Go To Candidates He Backed.

Albany, N. Y., Sept 20 (U.P.).—At least two of a group of dry Republican representatives were renominated tonight over wet opposition in the State's primary election.

With only six rural precincts remaining to be accounted for, which could not alter his majority, Representative Frederick M. Davenport, a foe of liquor, defeated his repealist opponent, Daniel F. Strobel, in the Thirty-third District.

The vote:
Davenport, 16,467.
Strobel, 4,887.

Representative Frank Crowther, also dry, was conceded his renomination over John Barnes, a wet, in the Thirtieth District. Harold E. Blodgett, Barnes' campaign manager, conceded.

The vote was:
Crowther, 9,465.
Barnes, 5,830.

Other Drys Lead.

Other dry congressional incumbents led their wet opponents.

Francis Culkin, dry incumbent from the Thirty-second Congressional District, appeared certain of renomination over his wet opponent, Edmund R. Wilcox, on the basis of latest tabulations. His lead was approximately three to one.

Party leaders awaited complete returns from the wet-dry contests eagerly, expecting perhaps, that they may serve as a barometer on the question for the November elections in New York State.

Condition of V.M.I. Head Is Improved

Gen. Lejeune's Chance for Recovery Is Described as Brighter.

Lexington, Va., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Physicians noted a slight improvement late today in the condition of Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, 65, Virginia Military Institute superintendent, who was seriously injured in a fall down an embankment on the campus.

Dr. C. C. Coleman, of Richmond, a brain specialist, before returning to the Capital today said that, although Gen. Lejeune's condition still remained serious, the chances for recovery were somewhat brighter. The patient was described as in a semi-conscious condition.

Dr. Todd and Dr. Mayfield, who accompanied Dr. Coleman here, returned with him. The V. M. I. superintendent suffered a skull fracture and broke his left arm when he struck against a pile of wood after falling down the embankment while out walking with Col. William Couper, business executive of Virginia Military Institute.

YOUNGMAN LEADING IN BAY STATE VOTE

Tops Goodwin by 9,000 in Race for G. O. P. Nomination for Governor.

Boston, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Lieut. Gov. William S. Youngman had piled up a lead of close to 9,000 votes on Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, early returns in today's primary fight for the Republican nomination for governor showed.

With 445 election precincts out of 1,707 in the State, including 60 out of the 362 in Boston, reported, the totals were:

Youngman, 50,366; Goodwin, 41,420.

E. Mark Sullivan, former corporation counsel for the City of Boston, had 4,003 votes and Walter E. Brownell, Boston lawyer, 3,009 in the same fight.

There was no contest in the Democratic ranks for the gubernatorial nomination, Gov. Joseph B. Ely being unopposed.

Gaspar G. Bacon, president of the State Senate, was far out in front of Chester I. Campbell, member of the executive council, for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. Bacon had, in the 322 precincts, 39,639 votes to Campbell's 24,059.

In the Democratic contest for lieutenant governor, 168 precincts gave: Swift, 2,125; Barry, 1,750; Brickley, 1,066; Fitzgerald, 1,088; Hennessey, 343; Kelley, 1,104; Malley, 1,363; O'Neill, 1,201.

Gandhi Ill of Excitement As He Begins Death Fast

Ban on Visitors Lifted and Crowds Thong to See Mahatma, Who Insists Upon Staying in Jail Although Technically a Free Man.

Poona, India, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi partook of an unusually large meal of fruit, bread and milk just before noon today and then, laughing and joking, started the hunger strike, which he declares will last until he dies or until the Indian electoral system is revised in accordance with his principles.

As he started his death fast the mahatma was technically a free man, for the government announced that his prison term, imposed several months ago because of his Nationalist activities, was over. But he elected to remain in his cell in Yeroda Jail.

The embargo on visitors was lifted at the same time that the "fast unto death" began. Among those who called on the mahatma were representatives of various Hindu interests and of the depressed classes.

Among the Indian political leaders expected tomorrow are Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, Mr. Jayakar and Pandit Madam Hohan Malabiya. It is understood that they will bring with them a new scheme of representation for the untouchables which may satisfy Mr. Gandhi and cause him to renounce his hunger strike.

His fast is in protest against the electoral system drawn up by the British cabinet, which, he contends, would continue the great gulf which separates the untouchables from the other communities in Indian life.

The crowd of friends and well wishers who called at the jail when the embargo was lifted apparently proved too much for the 63-year-old mahatma. He became ill. His indisposition was attributed to excitement, and, on the advice of his physician, he turned away many callers.

Chapple Has Lead Over Blaine.

RECORD VOTE SEEN IN STATE

Democrats Fail to Show Expected Strength.

Milwaukee, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The Milwaukee Sentinel at 11:30 p. m. said that on the basis of returns then tabulated that Walter J. Kohler had won the Republican nomination for governor.

Milwaukee, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—With 684 of the State's 2,899 precincts reported, former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, Conservative Republican, held a lead of 31,000 over Gov. Philip F. La Follette, Progressive, in today's Republican gubernatorial primary.

The vote was: Kohler, 96,316; La Follette, 65,572.

The returns were reported from 34 of the State's 71 counties, embracing both the rural sections, where La Follette ran strong in his successful contest with Kohler two years ago, and more populous centers, where Conservative strength is concentrated.

Of the 34 counties the incomplete vote gave Kohler a majority in 26.

Democratic Race.

Many of the precincts reporting were in the villages and cities inclined to give Conservative majorities, but the early returns gave definite indications that the Kohler sentiment was cutting away much of the 127,000 majority vote that was given to La Follette two years ago.

Meanwhile in the Democratic gubernatorial primary, Mayor A. G. Schmedeman, of Madison, went into a lead with 663 votes to 437 for William B. Ruhin, of Milwaukee, and 334 for Leo P. Fox, of Chilton, in the returns from 77 precincts.

In the Republican senatorial primary, John B. Chapple, of Ashland, Conservative, was leading Senator John J. Blaine, La Follette Progressive, by a vote of 41,373 to 35,134 in returns from 477 precincts.

Two La Follette Progressive representatives seeking renomination in the Republican primary were trailing their Conservative opponents in scattering returns from ten districts. They were Representatives Gerald Boileau, of Wausau, opposed in the Seventh District by John F. Jardine, and Representative James A. Frear, of Hudson, of the Ninth District, opposed by Merlin Hull, of Waupaca.

In the Tenth District, Representative Hubert H. Peavy, of Washburn, a Progressive, established a commanding lead over Philip E. Nelson, of Maple.

First Test of Strength.

Interest in the primary centered chiefly about the La Follette-Kohler fight, involving as it does the first real State-wide test of strength between the two open factions since the young son of the late Senator Robert M. La Follette rose to the governorship two years ago.

In 1930 Gov. La Follette overwhelmed Kohler by a majority of 127,000. Kohler at that time had served one term as governor.

Because of a tremendous increase in the Democratic vote in the convention delegate primary last spring, the Democrats forecast a big showing in today's primary. However, about seven Republican votes were being cast to every Democratic vote.

From all parts of the State came reports of long lines of voters waiting at booths. Many precincts ran out of ballots and sent out emergency orders for more. Political observers predicted a 900,000 vote. In the 1930 primary, 693,335 votes were cast.

DAVIS IS DEFENDED BY LODGE BROTHERS

Jurors Are Told Senator Did Not Assist in Work on Big Drawings.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Government lawyers called lodge brothers of Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, to the witness stand at his trial in Federal Court today, to tell of the drawings which the prosecution charges were lotteries.

Members of the Loyol Order of Moose, of which Senator Davis is director general, told about the charity balls held throughout the country in 1930 and 1931, promotion articles and contracts for them and drawings of prizes which followed.

But most of them said they could not remember that Senator Davis had very much to do with these activities.

The witnesses said they did not see him at the two drawings for prizes, which the Government contends were part of a gigantic lottery in violation of Federal laws, in which cash prizes totaling $200,000 were used as lure to sell $3,000,000 worth of tickets to the balls. Davis is charged with conspiracy and with aiding transportation of lottery tickets across State borders.

Perry A. Shanor, dictator of New York Lodge No. 15 of the Moose, and former member of the supreme forum of the supreme lodge, was on the stand in both morning and afternoon sessions.

"Do you know of any thing that Senator Davis had to do with these charity balls of 1930 and 1931?" asked Charles Tuttle, Davis' counsel.

"No, I do not," said Shanor.

Exhibits of contracts, certificates, buttons, circulars and tickets in connection with the balls rustled through lawyers' hands as they were marked for identification.

Shanor was shown a highly colored circular which the jury did not see. As it was handed up to him the big printed words, "Wow" and "$150,000 in cash" were visible to the courtroom.

"Was this exhibit also inclosed with the other material?" asked Louis M. Treadwell, assistant United States attorney.

Says He Can't Remember.

Shanor fingered it slowly.

"I can't remember anything about this," he said.

The two drawings for prizes testified about were January 3, 1931, in Mooseheart, Ill., where the lodge maintains an orphanage, and January 1, 1932, on board the boat Priscilla, somewhere off the coast of Connecticut.

Shanor said Senator Davis was not present at the drawing, but attended the luncheon which followed, at which a check for $150,000 was turned over to Mooseheart.

Later Shanor said he "wouldn't swear that Davis didn't make a talk at the luncheon," but couldn't remember definitely that he did.

Donald F. Stewart, editor of the Moose Magazine, whose testimony was continued from yesterday, said he was responsible "to the executive committee" for publication of the magazine.

"Are you responsible in any way to Mr. Davis?" asked Charles J. Margiotti, of Pittsburgh, a member of Davis' counsel.

"No."

Throughout the hours of testimony, interspersed with legal objections, Senator Davis sat facing the jury box sometimes with folded arms, sometimes with hand to face. Scarcely once did he confer with attorneys.

Testimony on Ball.

Shanor's testimony was interrupted during the afternoon by that of Matthew Fischette, of Clyde, N. Y., who it was said had to return to his home immediately because of illness in the family.

Fischette, secretary of the Clyde Lodge, said he learned of the charity ball project from Vincent Johnson by telephone. In answer to defense objection to the line of testimony, Treadwell said he would show Johnson was a salesman for the "propagation department" of the Moose, promoting the project.

He said his lodge agreed to "put on" the ball, after Johnson had made a talk explaining that heads of the lodge, including Davis, director general, were backing it.

A contract signed with Johnson was introduced in evidence and read to the jury.

A provision was that lodges which did not organize through Davis would be required to pay a double initiation fee.

the abnormal buying power of Oriental countries."

"It is widely recognized by conservative enlightened financial leaders that to remedy this we shall have to look to international action," he said.

"In line with the plan suggested by the Democratic platform, I shall advocate immediate action by our Government in cooperation with other governments.

"There are many ways of producing the results desired without disturbing the currency of the United States."

Mr. Roosevelt went through a day of conferences and sightseeing that took him through a dinner with Democratic leaders and a mass meeting at the Seattle Auditorium.

He rode in a flower-blanketed automobile through huge crowds that pressed into the streets so thickly that passage was difficult for the machines that followed. At the entrance to the Olympic Hotel the crowd thronged so densely that some trouble was had in clearing a passage for him.

Visits Children's Hospital.

He lunched privately before driving to the Children's Orthopedic Hospital to speak briefly from his automobile. A little later he was speeding out to Puyallup to visit the Western Washington State Fair and Tacoma.

Earlier in the morning, during a brief stop of his train at Everett, Mr. Roosevelt had told a crowd he was traveling not only to campaign, but to learn more of the problems of the country. "I think a person can learn more about them in this way than by sitting either in Albany or Washington," he said.

There were cheers and a banner emblazoned: "The associated veterans welcome Mr. Roosevelt." nodded in the drizzling rain. The rain and mist that had shrouded the high Cascades as his train sped down to Puget Sound cleared away, however, before he reached Seattle and there was bright sunshine on his arrival.

Garner's Mother Expires; Speaker With Her at End

Death Takes Pioneer Texas Woman at Age of 81 After Remarkable Resistance to General Toxic Poisoning; Funeral Today.

Detroit, Tex., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Mrs. Sarah Jane Garner, whose ambition it was to live to see her eldest son, John Nance, elected Vice President of the United States, died at her old colonial home here today.

Surrounded by her children, three sons and two daughters, the pioneer mother slipped quietly away at 12:25 p. m., after showing remarkable vitality against a general toxic poisoning which sent her to bed more than a week ago.

Although she rallied time and again from her critical illness, her three physicians and members of her family realized several days ago there was no hope for the 81-year-old patient to recover.

Recognized Eldest Son.

Only yesterday Mr. Garner, who arrived here Sunday after a hurried trip from Washington, where he had been formulating plans for the Democratic presidential campaign, said:

"My mother can not recover. It's only a question of time now."

She recognized Mr. Garner only once after his arrival, and that was a faint "yes" in response to his question of "Do you know me, ma?"

After that feeble greeting—Sunday afternoon—Mrs. Garner dozed off into a stupor from which she did not arouse sufficiently again to know those about her.

Burial Near Home.

Funeral services were set for tomorrow, after which the body will be placed in the family vault in the Detroit Cemetery, beside those of her husband, John Nance, sr., who died in 1919, and two of her children, a son and a daughter.

Mrs. Garner spent her whole life in two northeast Texas counties, Lamar and Red River. She was born in rough-hewn log cabin, May 20, 1851.

Her father was Mark Guest, who came with his father from Tennessee in 1821, traveling up the Red River by steamboat and settling at a little village on its bank.

There he married a young woman by the name of Dickson, whose family had settled at Clarksville. They established their home at what was known as Blossom Prairie.

Reared Five Orphans.

On a farm, Mrs. Garner grew to womanhood and, like her mother, married a frontiersman, the Texas representative's father. The couple made their home in a log cabin near the present town of Blossom.

It was in this cabin that their distinguished son, John Nance, jr., was born. Six other children were born to the couple, four of them now living. They are: Jesse L. Garner, Jolly Garner, Mrs. John R. Wright and Mrs. Maud Blair, all of whom live here.

In addition to rearing her own children, Mrs. Garner brought up five orphan children of relatives.

It was announced that Mr. Garner would return to Washington immediately after his mother's funeral services tomorrow, leaving by automobile for Texarkana, where he will board a train for the Capital.

"I think my mother was the sweetest woman in the world," Mr. Garner said after her death. "Besides rearing seven children, she took care of five orphans. Her entire life was devoted to doing good for others."

Just before Mrs. Garner passed away, the representative turned away, saying he did not want to see his mother die, but wished to remember her as he had known her as a boy with her arms around him.

Mr. Garner left home to study law before he was 20 years old. After living some time in Clarksville, ill health caused him to go to Uvalde, Tex., where his climb to fame started in the field of politics.

He visited his old home here whenever he could, his last visit being about a year ago.

Text of Roosevelt's Talk On Tariff by Negotiation

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The text of Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech here tonight follows:

I am glad on this occasion and in this place to extend my heartfelt respects to the great progressive senator, from a great progressive State, Senator Dill; to Clarence Martin, the next Governor of the State of Washington, and to Homer Bone, who is to be junior senator from this State.

To Mr. Bone I want to express the feeling again that I set forth in my acceptance speech, that this campaign is in behalf of principles that transcend party. The fight this year is against weak and mistaken and insincere leaders in Washington, and not against the rank and file of the Republican party. Mr. Bone has paid me the great compliment of responding to the invitation that I extended in my acceptance speech to men of all parties and political beliefs to join me in this battle for a new deal. I want to congratulate and compliment him on his unselfish and courageous stand and to prophesy his overwhelming election in the coming campaign. No intelligent person can doubt, after considering the enormous Democratic vote in this State, that its citizens realize the necessity for a new deal, and will at the coming election give the Democratic ticket an overwhelming majority.

Sarcastic on Trade Promises.

I am glad to visit once more this beautiful city and great seaport, on the one hand facing the Orient with its great significance in the life of the world today, and on the other, Alaska, our own Alaska, with its needs and its possibilities. I have often visited this city and always with pleasure; while I was in the Navy Department, the line of my duty led me here.

Now, under the pleasant auspices that have brought me here today, I am glad to renew old associations.

I regret that I shall have such little opportunity to see the beauties of Seattle, and its neighboring city, Tacoma. I have seen enough, however, and heard enough to know how heavily the hand of the great depression has fallen upon this Western country; to see what has happened in this great seaport bring back with keen irony some of the things that Republican leaders used to tell us about stimulating foreign trade. As I pointed out in my speech at Columbus, Ohio, one of the ways they were going to stimulate foreign trade was to lend money to backward and crippled countries to enable them to buy goods from us. That is one way to carry on business transactions. Another is just to give things away! I am not sure but the latter is better than the first, because when we give things away we save the cost of keeping books! And, moreover, we have no disappointment in failing to receive payment from our debtors.

Says Hoover "Weakly Yielded."

Another method that the present Republican leaders conjured up to provide for our prosperity was the Hawley-Smoot or Grundy tariff. President Hoover should have known that this tariff would raise havoc with any plans that he might have had to stimulate foreign markets. But, he did not, I am afraid, sufficiently understand how insistent are the demands of certain Republicans for special high tariff protection. When this tariff was passed, with its outrageous rates, he weakly yielded to the demand of these leaders and started us on the road where we now find ourselves. And it is the road to ruin, my friends! That tariff, as you in the State of Washington well know, had the inevitable result of bringing about retaliation by other nations. Forty of them set up their own tariff defenses.

For example, Canada imposed retaliatory tariffs on your peaches, so that the tariff is higher than the freight rates to Canada. There is a retaliatory tariff on asparagus; and on other vegetables and fruits, which is so high that practically none of your product can be sold to your neighbors across the border. The market for your surplus is destroyed and thereby fair prices for your whole crop are made impossible.

Embargoes by France, and other European countries on apples make it impossible to ship your surplus apples by the Panama Canal.

Tariff by Negotiation Plan.

Retaliatory tariffs on condensed milk have closed milk condensaries on the Northern Pacific Coast. Companies have sold their cows. That cuts off the market for the hay crops of the farmers. That is a good example of the interdependence of industry and agriculture. One great company has gone to Holland, Germany and other Europetan countries and built condensaries there. And at this time you are appealing to the Secretary of State to use his good offices with Germany to prevent the placing of canned salmon on a quota basis. In short, because we have built unjust tariff walls ourselves, other countries are using our own poison against us.

To remedy this, I have advocated and continue to advocate a tariff policy based in large part, upon the simple process of profitable exchange arrived at through negotiated tariffs with benefit to each nation.

If I am any judge of conditions, this policy will be initiated on March 4, next!

This principle of tariff by negotiation means to deal with each country concerned, on a basis of fair barter; if they have something we need, and we have something they need, a tariff agreement should be made satisfactory to both. This avoids a violent general shakeup of business. It is a just method in dealing with our foreign customers. It keeps the general structure of international trade stable and sound.

Plight of Oriental Countries.

Here, on the Pacific Coast, another factor has had a destructive effect upon foreign trade. Trade with the Orient has suffered to some extent on account of tariffs, but it has also suffered because of the abnormal depreciation of the buying power of Oriental countries.

It is widely recognized by conservative, enlightened financial leaders that to remedy this we shall have to look to international action. In line with the plan suggested by the Democratic platform, I shall advocate immediate action by our Government in cooperation with other governments. There are many ways of producing the results desired without disturbing the currency of the United States.

In this whole matter of restoration of export trade with all countries, East and West, through the methods that I have outlined, I am absolutely determined that our country shall take the initiative and the leadership.

This constitutes what I conceive to be a new deal in the restoration of foreign trade—it is the way to economic peace and stability and to a reasonable and sound prosperity.

It is the way of fairness and justice, too—fairness to our customers abroad and justice to our own citizens who have suffered so bitterly because of the loss of this export trade. This measure of justice can come only through a revival of industry and employment. No charity, but a chance to earn a living. This is the hope and the demand of the man forgotten in the policies of the present Republican leadership.

SMITH TO SUPPORT LEHMAN, IS REPORT

Friend Says Silence Will Be Broken at Convention on October 3.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—"Al" Smith's silence on party politics will end, one of his associates said tonight, when he goes as a delegate to the Democratic State convention October 3.

"It is very possible he will be the one to place Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in nomination as a gubernatorial candidate," Smith's friend said.

Lehman is Gov. Roosevelt's own choice for the nomination.

Whether this move on the "happy warrior's" part will end the political rift between the 1928 and 1932 standard bearers was a matter of speculation in political circles, but there was no comment from Smith's office.

Hull Fires Broadside.

It was said there, however, that the former governor will probably make some definite statements about his attitude toward the presidential campaign either just before or during the convention.

Senator Hull, of Tennessee, issued a statement asking how "Republican leaders have the effrontery to say: 'Why change?'"

"This is in poor grace," he added, "coming from a political party that kept itself in power for a generation by brutally charging the Cleveland administration with sole responsibility for the panic of 1893. * * *

"The voters will no longer countenance an administration, the record of which is written in terms of panics, bankruptcies, failures, broken promises, unemployment and suicides."

Bonus Stand Near.

Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, in accepting the vice presidency of the Roosevelt business and professional league, said he found Democratic prospects bright while touring the Middle West, South and Southwest. He said Indiana, "whose fourteen electoral votes are normally cast for the Republican presidential candidate, will certainly go Democratic this year."

Democratic campaign leaders at headquarters said they expected that Gov. Roosevelt would issue a statement giving his views on the bonus question after returning early next month from his Western trip.

It was said he probably would confer with Ralph T. O'Neil, former national commander of the American Legion and now head of the Roosevelt-Garner Veterans' Bureau, before making his position known.

PRESIDENT TO MAKE TALK IN DES MOINES

Secretary of the Treasury Mills will leave for Los Angeles, with a stop at Detroit on September 29.

Vice President Curtis will open his campaign tonight in Knoxville, Tenn. Tomorrow he will begin a swing through the Volunteer State to Kentucky and West Virginia, and then to Oklahoma. Speaking engagements beyond Durant, Okla., on October 1, have not been announced.

New Challenge to Roosevelt.

A new challenge to Gov. Roosevelt to reveal his position on the soldier bonus was hurled from the Republican camp yesterday. Representative Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, wired the Democratic nominee for a "straight-from-the-shoulder statement" on the demand for immediate payment voiced in the recent convention of the American Legion.

Representative Johnson recalled the recent Saturday Evening Post article of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, which denounced the veterans demands in unequivocal terms.

"All veterans of all opinions join with the last Democratic candidate in demanding that both presidential candidates clearly and without evasion state their honest conviction on this important question," Representative Johnson teleghaphed Gov. Roosevelt on the Pacific Coast. "The position of the President in opposition to immediate cash payment of the bonus at this time of economic crisis is clear. Your position is a mystery. Citizens and veterans alike demand a straight-from-the-shoulder statement that you do or do not favor immediate cash payment of the bonus. They are entitled to know your position."

Representative Johnson is a World War veteran and one of the founding group of the American Legion. He recalled that Gov. Roosevelt recently received Commander W. W. Waters, leader of the routed B. E. F., at Albany.

Curtis Extends Sympathy In Passing of Mrs. Garner

(Associated Press.)

On his way to round out almost half a century of political campaigning, Vice President Charles Curtis stepped on a railroad train last night on a new trail leading across the Nation.

The 72-year-old Republican warrior paused before entraining to express his sympathy to his rival, Speaker Garner, whose mother died yesterday.

"Speaker Garner has my sincerest sympathy," said Curtis. "I am very sorry."

'Democratic Soap' Sale To Benefit Unemployed

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Tyre Taylor, president of the Young Democratic Club of America, announced today that unemployed persons throughout the Nation will be used by member clubs in a campaign to sell 25,000,000 bars of "Democratic soap."

Each bar is wrapped in red, white and blue paper, dotted with stars, and printed on the front of each is the slogan: "Democratic Soap—Let's Clean Up America."

Printed on the back of each wrapper is: "Works best when wet—Buy Democratic soap—Your dime provides a job for another good American and helps carry on the fight for clean government."

Taylor said it is planned to conduct a Nation-wide campaign selling the soap, house to house and office to office. Each unemployed person handling the soap will receive several cents for each bar sold, and the local Young Democrats Club will get the remainder.

FARM PRICE TRENDS CHEER REPUBLICANS

Former Indiana Governor and Auto Manufacturer Are Optimistic.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—A report of improving business conditions, increasing agricultural prices, and a "better feeling among the farmers" of the Middle West was brought to Republican Eastern headquarters today by former Gov. James P. Goodrich of Indiana.

"The situation in my section of the country is improving," he said in a formal statement.

"Prices of farm commodities—eggs, corn, hogs—have increased from 40 to 80 per cent in the past 60 days. We are seeing the effect of advancing prices for farm products in a better feeling among the farmers."

"Better conditions are also noticeable among the merchants and business men. In fact, they are doing as much business as they did a year ago in volume, although not in dollar total.

"Feeling is headed in the right direction. We are going right ahead."

Willys Lauds Hoover.

In giving out his statement, the Hoover-Curtis campaign leaders listed Goodrich as "a recognized authority on agricultural conditions in the Middle West."

John N. Willys, automobile manufacturer and former minister to Poland, addressing the Controller's Institute of America, said of President Hoover:

"His name will go down in history for his constructive accomplishments in a period filled with greater distress than that faced by any other President, not excepting Lincoln. And most of this distress was caused by agencies outside governmental control, and which the Government, in this emergency, has been called upon to remedy. * * *

"The effects of his (the President's) courageous action are now beginning to show above the horison and will be increasingly apparent as each succeeding year passes, bringing us back to our normal prosperity."

Roosevelt Is Criticized.

A. L. Brockway, vice president of the New York State Agricultural Society, issued a statement criticizing Gov. Roosevelt's farm address.

"Why," he asked, "does Gov. Roosevelt stoop to deliberate misrepresentation of some facts and ignore others? * * *

"Those of us who know him, who have seen how he has attempted to capitalize in New York State the fact that he inherited an estate at Hyde Park which had belonged to his father and his paternal grandfather, thus qualifying him as a farmer, are well aware of the fact that he has capitalized this to the extent of enabling him to talk to farmers as though he were one of us. * * *

"The farmers of this country should have it made clear to them that this is a pose. His appeal is made to emotions and passions and not to reason.

"When he talks to railroad men he talks as though he had on overalls in his speech."

G. O. P. Called at Odds In Criticizing Roosevelt

(Associated Press.)

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, in a statement issued through the Democratic national committee, asserted the "Hoover high command is so plainly confused that its members can not agree even on the criticism" of Gov. Roosevelt's speeches.

He cited the comment of Senator Hatfield (Republican), West Virginia, declaring Gov. Roosevelt's railroad speech was "one of the beautiful butterflies of his fancy" and then cited the comments of Secretary Mills, Senator Watson (Republican), Indiana, and Secretary Doak stating the Roosevelt address was taken from the program of President Hoover.

G. O. P. RALLY HERE IN CAMPAIGN READY

Rover and Scott to Speak Tomorrow Night at Willard Hotel.

Leo A. Rover, United States attorney, and Charles F. Scott, former representative, will speak at tomorrow night's Republican rally at the Willard Hotel. The meeting, the first of the campaign, will be under the auspices of the Republican State committee of the District.

Samuel J. Prescott, chairman of the State committee, will preside at the gathering. The program will include music by Fred East and William A. Raymond.

Residents of Washington who desire to vote in California and Illinois this year were advised yesterday by the committee that they should waste no time in completing registration for the elections.

Illinois Registration.

All registration in California closes on September 30, while in Illinois registration will be conducted during the first three weeks of October. All voters seeking to register in either State must obtain forms from local officials in their towns and cities.

At the National Capital Republican Club the information bureau of the campaign organizations has established headquarters for the benefit of voters who temporarily reside in the District of Columbia.

It is also headquarters for the Hoover and Curtis Campaign Club, which is officered as follows: president, Edward F. Colladay, national committeeman; first vice president, Mrs. Virginia White Speel, national committeewoman; secretary, G. R. Manchester; treasurer, Ord Preston; executive secretary, William S. Becker.

Efforts to Arouse Voters.

The campaign organization, composed of two representatives from the several Republican organizations of the District, is charged with the work of conducting the present campaign under the direct supervision of the Republican State committee in and for the District of Columbia.

Since the organization of the National Capital Republican Club strenuous efforts have been made to arouse the voters temporarily resident in Washington to the importance of registration in their several States and the casting of their ballots at the election on November 8.

Colored Republicans Addressed by Colladay

Negro Republicans crowded the auditorium of the Masonic Temple at Tenth and U streets northwest last night to hear Edwin F. Colladay, and several other speakers plead the cause of the party. The rally was sponsored by the Hoover-Curtis Campaign League.

Other speakers were Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Mrs. Mary Church-Terrell, Francis Wells, Loremo Berry, Dr. John R. Francis and Jefferson S. Coage, recorder of deeds.

Defeated Democrat Gets Republican Nomination

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—State Senator William Lathrop Love, the Brooklyn Democrat who joined the Republicans to vote in favor of the Hofstadter investigation of New York City, was defeated for the Democratic nomination in the primary today.

He was snowed under by Joseph A. Esquirol, assemblyman, who had the backing of the Democratic organization headed by John H. McCooey. The Republicans gave Love the nomination on their ticket without a contest, however, so he will continue his fight for reelection into November.

Mayor Walker's Arrival Ignored by Naples Press

Naples, Italy, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Former Mayor James J. Walker of New York, arrived here today on the steamer Conte Grande and encountered what for him was something new. The Neapolitan papers didn't print a line about him.

There was no official information that the journals were acting on instructions but newspapermen said they understood the authorities had decided Mr. Walker should be dealt with discreetly, particularly in view of the fact that a presidential campaign is going on in the United States.

BOARD OF ADVISERS TO AID R. F. C. WORK

Sponsors of Small Projects May Give Plea Without Expense of Trips.

(Associated Press.)

A Nation-wide advisory board of engineers to assist small projects needing financing by the Reconstruction Corporation has been set up with the assistance of W. S. Lee, president, and L. W. Wallace, executive secretary, of the American Engineering Council.

This was announced yesterday by Harvey Couch, director of the Reconstruction Corporation in charge of self-liquidating projects.

Lee, who is executive vice president of the Duke Power Co., at Charlotte, N. C., conferred here Monday with officials of the corporation.

The plan will complete the engineering set-up of the corporation, and make it possible for sponsors of small projects coming under the self liquidating feature of the law to obtain loans without the necessity of expensive trips to Washington. In each of the 33 districts in which the corporation has branch offices there will be an engineering board to sit with the financial committee. The board will examine the projects and determine their feasibility and the recommendations of the district officers will be sent to the corporation complete.

This does not mean, however, that applications will not continue to come direct to the corporation here.

Harry E. Whittaker, of New York, has been loaned to the corporation by Ford-Bacon-Davis Engineering Co., to summarize information for the engineering board. He will act as an assistant and coordinator.

Judd Arrives in Capital; To Ask Funds of R. F. C.

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Lawrence Judd, of Hawaii, accompanied by Attorney General H. R. Hewitt, arrived yesterday to apply for aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

He declined to say how much would be asked for the islands, until he had filed the application. He was also silent on other projects to be discussed while in Washington. Secretary Wilbur of the Interior was out of the city and Judd said he had no appointment yet outside of the department.

Col. Miller Loses Fight To Save Homestead

Newkirk, Okla., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Col. Zack T. Miller, master of the 101 Ranch, and his former wife, Mrs. Margaret Blevins-Miller, lost today their district court fight to keep the homestead of the former "inland empire."

Disallowing their homestead exemption claim, Judge Claude Duval rendered judgment for $111,792 in favor of the John Hancock Life Insurance Co., covering a mortgage on 2,119 acres. The "White House," ranch headquarters and Miller home, is on the land involved in the foreclosure proceedings.

Cotton Spinning Industry Shows 22 Per Cent Gain in Month; Railroad Reports Upward Trend in Freight Loadings; Building Increases.

(Associated Press.)

Business developments yesterday included:

Washington—An increase of nearly 22 per cent in activity of the cotton spinning industry was shown in the Census Bureau's monthly report. The report said spindles were working at 72.4 per cent of capacity August 1, compared with 51.7 per cent a month previous.

New York—The Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad announced its carloadings of freight are "showing a decided upward tendency" despite recent reactions in cotton and wheat prices. It was announced loadings and receipts this month averaged 1,242 cars daily, an increase of 170 cars over last month.

Chicago—S. W. Straus & Co. made public a survey of 565 cities showing building permits increased slightly during August. The total was $32,921,292, compared with $32,747,091 for July.

Akron, Ohio—All Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. office employes go on a five-day-a-week basis October 1. Along with the reduction in hours a salary adjustment goes into effect which, the company said, "involves reductions ranging from* nothing for the lower-salaried employes to 10 per cent for higher-salaried executives." The new policy will prevail until February 1, 1933.

Pittsburg, Kans.—Officials of District No. 14, United Mine Workers of America, and coal mine operators of Kansas have reached an agreement whereby several deep mines in the field, will resume operations by October 1, Henry Allal, district president, announced. The agreement calls for a wage reduction of approximately 25 per cent for day and month workers and 22½ per cent for men on dead work and yardage.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia announced employment in Pennsylvania anthracite coal mines increased 10.5 per cent and pay rolls increased 19.8 per cent during August.

New York—Consolidated Oil Corporation announced its marketing subsidiary, Sinclair Refining Co., has awarded contracts for approximately 1,500 tons of fabricated steel. The company is recalling 150 former employes at Kansas City, it was announced.

New York—Closing of contracts for the sale of $1,500,000 worth of airplanes, engines and propellers to the Brazilian and Persian governments was announced by United Aircraft & Transport Corporation.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Alpha Cement Co., at Phoenixville, announced that 75 workers have been recalled for full-time operation. The plant was closed last June.

MAN IS EXONERATED IN KIDNAPING OF BOY

Was Not One of Trio, Says Youth in New York; Hunt Pushed by Police.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Eight-year-old Jackie Russell, safe at home after a night of excitement, today exonerated one suspect as police pressed the search for three kidnapers in the vicinity of his Brooklyn home.

The boy looked over Joseph Haggenmuller, 26, carefully and said he was not one of the three men who spirited him away in an automobile yesterday noon and turned him loose last night. The prisoner was held further, however, on charges involving the possession of a blank cartridge pistol and a large pocket knife.

Haggenmuller had been spotted wandering about in front of the shore road home of Arthur S. Russell, the lad's father, and was captured after a short chase. He was carrying newspaper clippings of the Lindbergh kidnaping mystery, and the Russell case and police said he was acting in a suspicious manner.

Detectives escorted Jackie on an extensive tour of Brooklyn in the hope that he could identify the house in which he was detained for twelve hours, but he was of little help.

He narrowed the search to men only when he said that the woman who aided in his restoration had met him standing on a street corner and had put him on a street car bound for his home, after paying his fare and placing him in the care of the conductor.

Mrs. Mabel Cumming, 25, later turned up at a police station and identified herself as Jackie's benefactress. She called at the Russell house and received the family's thanks. Three telephone operators, meeting the boy as he stepped off the street car, also were instrumental in his return.

CONFERENCE ON RAIL PAY CUTS DUE TODAY

Meeting Expected Following Informal Gathering of Officials and Labor.

(Associated Press.)

A meeting today at which it was believed wage reductions would be proposed for trainmen was indicated last night following an informal conference of railway executives and representatives of labor.

Both groups said after yesterday's meeting the wage question had not been broached. A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association, said it had been agreed that if either group wanted another session today it would be granted, and W. F. Thiehoff, of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, who is chairman of the wage committee of railroad executives, indicated there would be another meeting.

Yesterday's gathering was not prearranged. The 21 representatives of labor brotherhoods were in the Capital for Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on the six-hour working day, while the nine railway executives met without public announcement at a hotel.

Whitney said the representatives of the roads had asked for a joint meeting and it had been granted, but with no formal proposals made on either side.

The railway wage earners are now working under a voluntary 10 per cent reduction which ends next February. It was negotiated after the employers had suggested conferences rather than announcing the cut arbitrarily and throwing the question before the Railway Mediation Board.

Recent meetings of the railroad heads have been held for discussion of the wage question, with suggestions current that they not only would ask extension of the 10 per cent agreement but would propose a larger reduction based upon curtailed revenues.

"I have heard nothing officially of any proposals for an extension of the agreement," Whitney said yesterday, "and I don't believe we will get notice that further reductions are to be asked."

HOOVER URGES REICH NOT TO QUIT PARLEY

view of the German demands was similar to that of Great Britain.

Great Britain answered the plea for arms equality with a memorandum to which high German spokesmen objected as being in an "unfriendly form." The same Berlin source asserted that Germany could not "accept the reasoning of the British memorandum, according to which Germany, of her own accord and without compelling reason, raised a political issue of vast implications."

Rejected by France.

Previously, the same arms equality plea sent directly to France, where it met with strong opposition, and even gave rise to internationally published reports that France was considering asking an investigation into German armaments.

Administration officials often have reiterated that the United States was not directly concerned with the arms equality demand, since this country was not a signatory of the Versailles Treaty, but the Chief Executive's statement yesterday was his first direct utterance on the subject in connection with the German demand. It confirmed other utterances by Government spokesmen.

While President Hoover was issuing his statement it was announced at the State Department that Hugh R. Wilson, the American Minister to Berne, will meet today with the Bureau of the Disarmament Conference at Geneva, called to make drafts of subjects already agreed upon and to arrange a schedule for the full meeting next February.

To Push Disarmament Plans.

The State Department has not been advised whether Germany will be represented at the Geneva meeting today, but this Government will drive ahead with its disarmament plans.

Wilson will be assisted at Geneva by Ferdinand L. Myer, counselor of the Brussels Embassy, and Lieut. Col. George V. Strong, of the War Department. The bureau which meets today is a steering committee entrusted with preliminary discussions and arrangements.

Drafts will be made of subjects on which agreement already has been reached, notably air forces, land artillery, tanks and chemical and bacteriological warfare. The bureau will also seek to devise plans for the limitation and reduction of effectives and other problems on which there was no agreement.

U. S. GAINING GOLD; BANK CREDITS LESS

Hoarding in Nation Is Cut as Conditions Improve; Failures Decrease.

(Associated Press.)

A decided improvement in the world gold situation, an increase in the metal held in the United States and a decrease in Federal Reserve bank credit during August were reported yesterday in the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Board.

The board also said there had been a decrease in hoarding and an improvement in banking conditions in the United States. Only 85 banks, with deposits of $34,730,000, suspended in August. The suspensions compared with 131 in July which involved deposits of $49,877,000, and 158 in August last year, with deposits of $180,028,000.

"The recent inflow of gold from abroad which began at the middle of June resulted in an increase in the country's stock of monetary gold, between June 15 and August 31 of about $175,000,000," the board said. "This increase brought the gold stock to $4,086,000,000.

"This is about the same level as of the second half of 1928 and the first quarter of 1929 before either the recent financial crisis or the prevailing business depression had begun to show itself."

The board said that as compared with the middle of 1928, the central gold reserves of the principal countries of the world outside of the United States had increased about $1,800,000,000, or 30 per cent, because of a large output of the world's gold mines and the release of gold from private holdings in Australia, China, India and Russia.

The board said the volume of reserve bank credit outstanding has declined during recent weeks from the high level of July chiefly in consequence of the gold inflow and the return of currency from circulation. Funds received by member banks from these sources, and from an increase in currency issued by the Treasury to national banks under the home-loan bank law, enabled member banks to reduce their borrowings from reserve banks to the lowest level of the current year and at the same time increase their reserves by about $100,000,000. The member bank reserve balances, amounting to $2,148,000,000 on August 31 were consequently the highest of the last three months and were more than $300,000,000 in excess of legal requirements.

Haiti Believes U. S. Force Would Stay

Reasons Told for Rejection of Treaty; Island Ponders November Election.

(Associated Press.)

Belief that the new treaty offered Haiti by the United States would fail to free the island republic from occupation of American Marines was cited at the Haitian Legation yesterday as one of the reasons why that country's national assembly rejected it.

The Haitian action Monday was explained on that ground by Dantes Bellegarde, the Haitian minister. He said that continuance of certain American Government financial control until 1952 was another reason.

In announcing this Bellegarde said President Stenio Vincent in recommending approval of the treaty to the assembly had mentioned the possibility of a change in the Washington administration next year, and with it a change to the Haitianization program of President Hoover.

The rejected treaty would have supplanted one now in force which expires in 1936. Under the new one Haitians would have been in complete command of their guard by December 31, 1934, and marines and the American Scientific Mission would have been withdrawn not later than 1934 instead of 1936.

Roosevelt Is Cheered By 100,000 in Seattle

Seattle, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Officials said today that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt had drawn the biggest crowd since Col. Charles A. Lindbergh visited this city on his flight around the United States, in 1927.

Police and the Seattle Times estimated the crowd that lined the sidewalks for 25 blocks at 100,000. The spectators cheered almost constantly, and several times groups of 50 or more broke out into the street and marched along beside the governor's car.

From an office building near the hotel some one shouted, "We're for you, Teddy!"

WET ARE DEFEATED IN NEW YORK VOTING

District, Phillip A. Goodwin led a three-cornered race with a growing vote. Returns were virtually complete from one of the counties in the area. Prohibition was not an issue.

The vote:
Goodwin, 4,042.
George Yaeger, 757.
Charles Ford, 148.

Cole Leads Stalker.

Sterling Cole, a moderate dry, slipped into an early lead over the ardent prohibitionist incumbent, Representative Gale H. Stalker, for the Thirty-seventh Congressional nomination.

The vote:
Cole, 3,202.
Stalker, 2,941.

Cole was the first of the moderates to jump into the lead on a basis of first returns. They had waged strenuous campaigns.

Mrs. Ruth Pratt, congressional incumbent, from the "silk stocking" Seventeenth District of New York City, led G. Hiram Mann, 1,586 to 99 with tabulation of first results. Prohibition was not an issue.

Repealist Renominated.

Albany, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—In the Fortieth District, made up of Niagara County and part of Erie County, Representative Walter Gresham Andrews, a repealist, was renominated by the Republicans over G. Barrett Rich, dry, and John Arnold Treuthart.

Democratic returns showed that Representative James M. Mead, of Buffalo, had been renominated in the Forty-second (Erie County) District.

Three congressional contests for Democratic nomination in Brooklyn were won by the candidates backed by the organization headed by John H. McCooey. The victors, all renominated, were: Third District, George W. Lindsay, who beat Francis D. Saita; Eighth District, Patrick J. Carley, victorious over Hugo Seeselberg, and Tenth District, where Emanuel Celler won over Norman Seedman.

Further Victories.

McCooey's candidates also won in each of the senatorial and assembly contests in the borough. Senators Philip M. Kleinfeld and John A. Hastings were renominated over independent candidates. Hastings recently figured in the Hofstadter committee investigation of the affairs of the City of New York, was charged with contempt of the committee by its counsel, Samuel Seabury, and was mentioned in the testimony before the committee and before Gov. Roosevelt.

Senator William Lathrop Love, the only Democratic member of the Senate to vote for the $500,000 appropriations for the Hofstadter committee, was not given a redesignation by the McCooey organization and ran as an Independent for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the Eighth District. He was beaten by the organization candidate, Assemblyman Joseph A. Esquirol. Dr. Love, however, has the Republican senatorial nomination this year and will oppose Esquirol in the November election.

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 20 (U.P.). The primaries in Westchester County today resulted in the following candidates being nominated:

Congress (Twenty-fifth District)—Democratic, Jesse B. Perlman; Republican, Charles D. Millard.

Most Famous of Hangmen Ends Brooding by Suicide

London, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—John Ellis, the world's most famous hangman, ended eight years of brooding retirement today.

He was found dead, his throat slashed and a razor by his side.

On January 9, 1923, after 22 years at his sinister task, Ellis bore the reputation of being the hangman who had sent more condemned murderers to their deaths than any other living man.

On that same day he put to death the notorious Mrs. Edith Thomson, who, with young Frederick Bywaters, was condemned to death for the murder of the woman's husband.

Years before Ellis had ostracised himself from society. His worry increased as his reputation became public. The hanging of Mrs. Thomson, who had to be dragged to the scaffold, was too much for him.

The aging man retired as a public hangman in the following year, but he was unable to shake off the horrors that haunted him. On August 20 of that year he spent a sleepless night and the next day was found gravely wounded with a revolver by his side.

But Ellis recovered, and after a long conference with a magistrate promised he wouldn't commit suicide. But the years piled on years and the horror remained. The promise dimmed and today Ellis was dead.

Among those who died in a noose supervised by Ellis was Sir Roger Casement, former British consul, who was was hanged for high treason. He was put to death in 1916 for conspiring to cause an armed revolt in Ireland, and for having sought German aid to that end.

Ellis also officiated at the hanging of Maj. Herbert R. Armstrong, a leading Welsh solicitor, convicted on a charge of poisoning his wife.

But it was the hanging of Mrs. Thomson that got his nerve, and he was reported to have sworn never to execute another person.

For a brief period in 1927 Ellis went on the stage in the part of a hangman, but that too was a little too much for him.

It was once Ellis' boast that he performed a hanging in 9 seconds, that span representing the time it took to take the condemned person from his cell and drop him to death.

OKLAHOMA SOLDIERS FIGHT OIL WORKERS

Tear Gas Dispels Crowd as Gov. Murray Enforces Production Ban.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—National guardsmen called out by Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, today fought with lease workers who attempted to open oil wells charged with overproduction.

One man, O. A. Kyle, a gauger for the H. F. Wilcox Oil & Gas Co., was struck on the head in the encounter, after extra guardsmen had rushed to the field and locked up three of the company's wells. Several others in the fight were reported bruised. Kyle was not hurt seriously.

The Wilcox Co., through George A. Dye, vice president and general manager, announced it had started to open all ten of its wells under a supreme court supersedeas bond, granted last week.

Military control of Oklahoma production has been in force since Gov. Murray, more than a year ago, shut down all production in an attempt to increase crude oil prices. The complete shut-down order has been rescinded, but national guardsmen have continued supervision of production in the Oklahoma City field.

After today's clash a crowd of about 200 gathered in anticipation of another fight was dispersed by tear-gas bombs tossed by national guardsmen.

Although one family was forced to evacuate its home temporarily, none of the crowd of curious suffered any ill effects.

Determined to keep the ten Wilcox wells closed under an order of the State Corporation Commission, Col. Cicero I. Murray, heading more than a hundred guardsmen in the field, established patrols on the company's leases. Col. Murray is a cousin of the governor.

PARK BOARD SYSTEM DEFENDED BY GRANT

ation because of the belief that they are of secondary importance.

Walter Millard, of the Proportional Representation League, proposed a plan of setting aside a place in parks where the right of free speech might be exercised without interference.

That recreational areas have actually benefited by the depression was the view given by Alfred MacDonald, president of the American Institute of Park Executives. He pointed out that work that would otherwise have been delayed ten years or more has been accomplished through the introduction of emergency work to relieve unemployment.

William B. Belknap, president of the American Legislators Association, declared that legislative bodies throughout the country are in sympathy with a system of State parks.

Frederic A. Delano, president of the American Civic Association; Frederick Bigger, president of the American City Planning Institute; J. Leo Kolb, Washington realtor; Mrs. W. L. Lawton, chairman of the National Council for Protection of Roadside Beauty; Mrs. H. Marie Dermitt, secretary of the National Association of Civic Secretaries; Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service, and Jay Downer, chief engineer of the Westchester County Park Commission, were other speakers.

Message From Hoover.

A message from President Hoover, in which he extended greetings and expressed the hope that the conference would result in a contribution of material value to the Nation, was read by Col. Grant.

At a session earlier in the day of the National Municipal League, Gordon L. Hostetter, executive director of the Employers Association of Chicago, declared that racketeering, once thought to be a temporary form of graft or extortion, has developed permanent roots in business, politics and organized labor.

Mr. Hostetter divided "the true racket" into four classes—the business man, business group or association of business men; the leader or leaders of organized labor; the criminal underworld and the politician.

Called American Product.

Mr. Hostetter pointed out that it was not his intention to indict the whole field of either business or labor unions.

"Racketeering," he declared, "is an inside job and a native American product, for which business itself is too greatly responsible."

The annual crime cost in the United States has been estimated by a Federal judge to be betwen $11,000,000,000 and $13,000,000,000, Mr. Hostetter said, while in Chicago alone the amount is $145,000,000 a year.

Racketeering has become worse in the past two years, because the criminal, who was formerly a tool for organizations of business men and organized labor, is now gaining the ascendency, Mr. Hostetter told the conference.

REUNION OF WORLD'S CHRISTIANS IS URGED

Thousands of Methodists in London Session Hope for Merged Churches.

London, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—A call for a reunited world church, taking in all Christiandom, was sounded tonight by the Anglican Bishop of London, speaking at a gathering of thousands of Methodist representatives who earlier in the day had effected the union of the three branches of their church in Great Britain.

"I hope I shall live to see another great gathering in Albert Hall (where the meeting took place) when, without any reabsorption of one with the other, a great reunited church, with the fire of the Wesleyans combined with the faith and order of the historic church, shall advance with new power and conviction to convert the world," said the Bishop of London, the Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram.

"And why confine this reunited church to Wesleyans and the Church of England? Why should not the Baptists, Presbyterians, Greeks, Old Catholics and at last a reformed Roman Catholic Church, all join with the molten glory of one Holy Catholic Church throughout the world?

Prelude to Greater Reunion.

"While, therefore, I welcome this reunion (of the Methodists) and wish you Godspeed, I look upon it as only a prelude to the greater reunion in days to come."

The three branches of Methodism joined by today's action are the Primitive Methodists, the United Methodists and the Wesleyans. They were merged into the United Methodist Church.

Ten thousand representatives from many nations witnessed the act of union. They were welcomed to the meeting by the Duke of York, representing the king, who asserted that the union "marks the opening of a new era in the life of one of the greatest spiritual forces in the modern world."

Message From King.

The three branches of Methodism had been split for many years.

Dr. J. Scott Ligett was named president-elect of the new church, with Sir Robert Perks, vice president. Sir Robert is the lay father of the union, having first proposed it in 1875. At the age of 83 he holds the highest position in the organization open to any member of the laity.

The new church embraces 5,000 ministers, 200,00 Sunday school teachers, 1,250,000 Sunday school students, and about 1,000,000 full members. Its total property in Great Britain in churches, school, colleges and missions is etsimated at $210,000,000 to $280,000,000.

A message from the king, read by the Duke of York, said, in part:

"I congratulate the United Churches on the attainment of this happy result. They may well see in it a token of divine guidance and blessing. I welcome it as marking one step toward unity of Christian peoples, a cause that is always near my heart."

A QUESTION OF ETHICS.

A HIGH standard of ethics and sportsmanship is essential in the bidding and play of Contract Bridge not only because any game which lacks these essentials is not a game that appeals to ladies and gentlemen, but the playing of any game with cheats and crooks is unpleasant in the extreme.

Mr. Oscar Stowens, of New York, submitted the following question to me:

"Playing last night with three friends, who have been playing together regularly for about a year, I held the following hand at West:

"East and West vulnerable; part-score, 35.

Spade, 6; Hearts, A 7 4; Diamonds, 6 4 3; Clubs, A K Q 7 4 2.

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1Nt	Pass	2NT	Pass
3NT	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

"Opening the club suit, I ran my six clubs and the Ace of hearts, and before the game was finished, the contract was set five tricks for a penalty of 1,000.

"Not to go into the merits of the bidding or the correctness of same, when the hand was finished, I was accused of being very unsportsmanlike and of playing 'Coffee House Bridge' because I did not bid my clubs and thus warn my opponents that they could not make a notrump contract and that they had better get together in some suit in order to make game. In view of the fact that the only bid I could make was in clubs, that we were vulnerable and had a part-score, that our opponents would certainly bid us up, and from the known conservative characteristics of South—judging him for at least three honor-tricks for his Opening bid, and therefore leaving my partner with very little assistance for me—I thought that a pass was the best bid I could make to see how the hand would develop. I was, of course, pleasantly surprised when our opponents, instead of attempting to show a suit, reached the contract of three notrump, which I was fairly sure we could defeat severely.

"Now the question is: "Was it poor sportsmanship on my part or was there anything tricky in not bidding my hand, and in not disclosing to my opponents the strength that I held—especially since they knew my propensity for bidding on the most minimum holdings—in letting them judge that my hand was practically a bust, and letting each expect to find the strength that was lacking in his hand in his partner's hand? The sum for which we played was very small and of really no consideration to any of the players, but what is of utmost importance to me is the question of ethics. Is the game played to get the most points possible out of the hand, or are you supposed to help out your opponents' poor bidding by putting in a legitimate bid of your own and thus saving them from penalties into which they would otherwise foolishly plunge, or is it unethical to pass a hand when you have a bid in your own hand?"

I am very happy to answer Mr. Stowens's question. There was nothing in the least unethical in Mr. Stowens' pass. The fact, as pointed out, that he had a reputation for being a rather free bidder, very much inclined on the slightest provocation to take a chance on the bidding—often to his regret—is not a factor in the case. A player has a right—an absolute, ethical right, if you please—to bid his hand as he chooses, and the question of ethics or sportsmanship can never enter itno a change of face in the bidding. When the bold become cautious and the timid bold, it may be disconcerting to the opponents, but it certainly is not unethical.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Sleeves and collar unusually arranged to give shoulder fullness, of beaver, matching in color the wool of the coat. Warm and smart. (Courtesy of the Maison Heim, Paris.)

THE darker tones of winter fashions are not the very best for the sun-browned maiden, my dear! Because it is contrast that makes the elegante and, as a famous couturiere says, "A dress should not be noticeable in itself, but should serve as a frame for the beauty of the woman who wears it." Naturally, the frame is best as a contrast to what it frames.

The Haute Couture has evidently decided to put an end to the sun-tan epoch whether Miladi likes it or not. Because almost all of the new colors are designed for the rose-leaf complexion! Not that Miladi Brunette hasn't found a way to get around this, because she would . . . but if circumstances or anything else have conspired to keep you away from the sun this past summer, then you are the favored type of the new mode.

Otherwise, here are some of the things that make-up can do for you and your sun-tanned complexion which will enable you to wear any of the newest winter colors with great allure . . . yourself, not the colors. Bordeaux, olive green, tete-de negre, brown and black and all of those new and novel violet shades being shown in evening and afternoon gowns, for instance, require a whole new assortment of eye cosmetics. With any of the new shades of brown, all of which are really warm shades, one uses brown mascara instead of black—and brown paste or powder above the eyes, which will give an almost indescribable allure and go a long, long way toward offsetting the sun tan in connection with a somber color in the ensemble.

As for the new violet shades, these require quite definite eye cosmetics—blue under and above the eyelids instead of black, and a not too rosy rouge either in face rouge or lipstick. And, of course, rachel or natural colored powder. This is for the fair complexion quite as much as for the sun-tanned one, too—in relation to these shades. But the sun-kissed skin must observe certain colorful cosmetic helps; that is certain. More of this complexion chat anon. Watch for it!

Wanno see how a bathrobe can really be individual? That's one on us, now isn't it—a bathrobe that can be individual and still retain its tailored look. Well, one can, and believing it or not, there it actually is, sketched up in the little corner for you today.

• • • •

'Nif I say "banana hankie" to you again—you will probably have catfits, won't you? But I simply can't resist—the vestee-blouse made of two bandana handkerchiefs is so-o-o-o-o chic and adorable and oh, everything! With sportswear, with tweed or any kind of tailored suits, really. And 5 cents apiece matters not at all—they are so inexpensive, and every one knows it—but no one cares, 'cause they are so cute. Then, if you wish, you can make the vestee blouse of two very fine men's handkerchiefs, with the monogram on each lapel—well, send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, which tells you all about how to make 'em into it.

• • • •

You may call it a cape or huge upper sleeves, or whatever you wish, really! The effect remains, and it is chic, and, oh, so very wintry and warm! The coat of Heim design and workmanship—that I sketched for you today, I mean. And "castor" trims it, which is beaver, my deah—and for the rest, the coat is chic and flattering, youthful and slenderizing, and all wool.

• • • •

And, oh, yes, you can use this hankie-vestee-blouse idea with any large-sized hankies, you see! And, oh, how chic they are, after all—let alone how practical and, well, sentimental!

Au Revoir.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHO HAS AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS?

ABOUT one-third of the automobile drivers have all the accidents not due to pure chance. The other two-thirds escape all accidents properly chargeable to the driver. About one-fourteenth of the drivers have one-half the accidents of this kind. In the experience of one commercial concern, one-eighth of the drivers had all the accidents and seven-eighths had clean records.

Experiences such as these, with the great toll in property, life and limb of automobile accidents and the great expense borne by employers, employes and the State caused Iowa State College to investigate the mentality of drivers. The methods used, and some of the conclusions, are told by Dr. A. R. Lauer in National Safety News.

Dr. Lauer devised a card on which the performance of drivers being investigated was scored. Driving tests, more complicated than those employed in States with drivers' license laws, were employed. On these the men were rated from A (excellent) to F (very bad). Drivers who had bad accident records were scored by these tests. They were given tests as to mental balance, mentality, personality, drug habits, other habits, and as to vision and hearing.

Of those who have an excessive number of accidents some have paranoia, others are paranoid, and still others have that type of personality akin to the paranoid, and commonly known as hot-headed. Since the paranoids and hot heads cause so many accidents, the employment manager should insult the applicant and see how he takes it before he gives him the driver's seat. A paranoid driver is apt to get hot-headed and hurt himself, or some other driver, or break up his or the other fellow's machine.

Very timid people make up a considerable part of those who have accidents. Users of drugs should not be allowed to drive. This includes alcoholics. Railroads have known for a long time that they could not trust a drinker with a locomotive. Of the two engines, under all the circumstances, the automobile engine is the more dangerous.

The insane should not be allowed to drive. Since no one is wholly insane and no one wholly sane, but all are in between, it is not easy to determine practically when a man has too much crazy in his mixture to make him an unsafe driver. Persons who are in early stage paresis are dangerous drivers, which is in accord with the experience of the railroads.

Two age groups are prone to accidents. One is the older man with a high blood pressure. The other is the youthful. Commercial concerns are advised to make age 22 the lower limit of employability of drivers. They are warned against certain mental types in which the mind never grows into the adult levels. This includes the morons, the feeble-minded, and the adolescent minded. Mental rating is a factor. Those whose minds rate below 75 are prone to accidents for obvious reasons. That those whose rating is above 125 are also prone is not so obvious. The probable reason is that they do not fit into the job of drivers and their minds are elsewhere.

Loss of sleep, fatigue, chronic illness, unpleasant home life are also causes of accidents and, of course, lack of character and a tendency to criminality as shown by disregard of the rights of others.

Dr. Lauer says that if drivers be investigated along these lines 60 to 80 per cent of accidents would be prevented.

ACID IN THE STOMACH.

J. C. J. writes: Why do some have too much acid to digest the food and others have lost what they had and must take medicine after meals to supply it?

REPLY.

There is more than one reason for each of these conditions. Variation in the amount of acid in the stomach contents, as shown by analysis, is not regarded as seriously as it was a few years ago. It may or may not call for investigation of the cause.

INDIGESTION AND MILK.

Mrs. L. A. writes: I have indigestion and I have been drinking a glass of milk with each meal for that trouble. I am getting better of my indigestion, but I am putting on fat. Is milk with meals fattening?

REPLY.

It is, provided you eat freely of other foods. If you think the milk is improving your digestion, continue drinking, but cut out the equivalent of cereal, bread, potatoes, eggs and meat.

How to Be Beautiful

Vacations Over? Feminine Eyes Turn to Fall Fashions.

THE Labor Day week-end officially marked the close of the summer season. Which means that vacations are, by now, nothing more than a fast-fading memory. Feminine eyes are therefore turning to the intriguing new fall fashions. Feminine hearts are beating to the tune, "Must get me a few new dresses, a hat or two, a coat perhaps." And what with the generally optimistic attitude that happily exists at present, purse strings are being released a bit.

We will leave it to the fashion column actually to describe the lovely new styles that fall sponsors. For ourselves, we'll intrude only to the extent that is necessary in order to link these fashions with our study of feminine beauty.

Molded Silhouette.

The waistline may move down a wee bit in your new gowns, but the general lines remain molded and slinky. They fail to hide the padded hip or bulging "tummy." So that there just can not be any let-up in figure trimming on the part of the no-longer-stylish stouts. Nor can we offer any encouraging word to the "skinny" ones. For the more feminine form is making a very definite come-back. Rounder bust-line, "boneless" backs, slightly fuller upper arms and broader shoulders are the order of the day.

Miss 1932 is borrowing from grandmother the little bicycle jacket, with its leg-o'-mutton sleeves, wee waist and full bust. The modern version, of course, which means the absence of exaggerated curves. Scrawniness is passe. From a health and beauty viewpoint the trim and rounded, solid but not superfluous, firm but not flabby figure of the day is entirely sensible and satisfying.

If You Are Stout.

If you are stout, and the summer failed to trim down the excess flesh or flabbiness, get busy now before the social season swings around. Cut down on starches and sweets. But don't starve yourself. Be sensible and take enough food, wholesome, nourishing food, to sustain you. Include plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, cooked and uncooked. And educate yourself to exercise. My reducing regime is yours if you will include a stamped return envelope with your request.

If You Are "Skinny."

Commence today to change those angles to curves, the pleasing-to-the eye, firm, flattering, feminine curves so stylish today. The first thing the underweight individual should do is have a physical examination to determine why flesh refuses to stay. Consult your physician as soon as possible. Then stop worrying. Start a hygienic health regime including more fresh air, more food of the rich, nourishing variety, more rest, sleep, relaxation, cheerfulness. Do a few simple exercises, in moderate doses, regularly. Send for my suggestions for gaining weight and watch the pounds as they do a very good example of adding.

Edwin Hill Urges Citizenship Revival

America Is at Crossroads, Norton Kiwanians Are Told.

Norton, Va., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—An appeal for continued efforts on the part of Kiwanians to develop mutual confidence and cooperation between the two great population classes—rural and urban—was voiced here today by Edwin F. Hill, of Washington, D. C., in an address before the Norton Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Hill, president of the Washington Kiwanis Club and chairman of Kiwanis education for the Capital district, said that "Kiwanis activities and dividend payments on investment bear a marked resemblance to each other."

"Citizenship today is on trial," he said. "If the members of the 1,800 Kiwanis clubs in the United States would devote a small part of their time to 'intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship' in their respective communities, think what an improvement could be made. The United States is at the crossroads of its very existence. Unless something is done very soon to bring about a revival of citizenship, industrial activity may give away to racketeering as the big business of the country."

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"VIRGO."

IF September 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 a. m. to 11:10 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 6:10 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

The planetary aspects of September 21 indicate a day of cheerfulness, free from worry and care, and replete with optimism. A day when you mean to do many things, but will end up by having done very little; a day of many resolutions, but few performances. A new friend, who should be cultivated, will appear on the scene.

A child born on this September 21 will be winsome, bright and cheerful; as it matures, these attractive qualities will be intensified and build up an interesting and delightful personality. It will be quick to learn, responsive to kindness, and fairly industrious. Its horoscope indicates both good fortune and much happiness.

Born on September 21, you want but little here below to make you contented and satisfied. Not fired by any great ambition, with simple tastes, and a sympathetic and tolerant disposition, you lead a tranquil life, and your chief worries are those your kith and kin, to whom you are bound by ties of deep affection and love. All your life you will be inconspicuous, as you never seek the limelight, nor prate about what you have done. Nevertheless your influence will be always felt in the community in which you have your being, and it will be a beneficial one.

You do not expect to take out of life more than you put into it. When things go wrong, you wsate no time in repining, but immediately do all within your power to set them right. You are practical and efficient, and use the implements, within your reach, rather than give up the job because of inadequacy of material.

Your emotions are deep, and without being gushing or mushy, you are never ashamed to show them; you do not believe in suppressing a natural form of expression. If you marry, and the stars say you will, conjugal life for both you and your mate will be an uninterrupted honeymoon.

Successful people born on September 21:

Edmund Blair Leighton, English artist.

Samuel Rea, railroad official.

H. L. Stimson, Secretary of State.

Louis Joliet, explorer.

Gideon F. Thayer, educator, founder of Chauncey Hall, Boston.

FAT
Is Needless Now

Modern science has discovered a great cause of excess fat. It lies in lack of a certain factor in the blood. No starvation can correct that cause. So doctors, the world over, now supply that lacking factor to the over-fat.

The world has changed, in respect to fat, since that was done. Countless people, by feeding that factor, have gained new vigor, health and beauty.

Marmola prescription tablets are based on that lacking factor. A famous medical laboratory prepares them. A book in each box states the formula, and explains results. People have used Marmola for 25 years—millions of boxes of it. And people all about you know and show its remarkable effects.

Go try this right way to reduce. Ask your druggist for Marmola. Read the book, watch its results. Do this, for your own sake—now.

DELEGATIONS URGE COUNTY ROAD WORK

Ask That Their Projects Be Included in Plans for Prince Georges.

Three delegations asking for road work in Prince Georges County appeared before the county commissioners yesterday to ask that their projects be included in the work to be done by the State with Federal funds. Four roads were selected for improvement by the commissioners some time ago, but all have been disapproved by the State road commission.

The roads requested yesterday were those from Camp Springs to Friendly; the Branchville-Glen Dale-Defense highway route, and the Mayhew road from Suitland to the Camp Springs-Meadows road. The petitioners were told the commissioners had not yet been officially notified by the roads commission that the original four roads had been disapproved.

Another delegation, representing the road from Kolbes Corner on Central avenue to Magruders Corner on the Defense highway also appeared yesterday. This road was one of the original four, and the petitioners asked that the scheduled work be carried on with State funds.

A request for permission to establish a cemetery at the corner of the Silver Hill and Owens Town road, in Forest Hills, was referred to the attorney for the board. The request was made by Benjamin L. Tepper for owners of the property.

Bird S. Dolby, attorney for the Town of Mount Rainier, appeared to ask that the commissioners disapprove an application for permission for a garage on Rhode Island avenue in the town. The park and planning commission issued a permit through error, but later revoked it, Mr. Dolby said. The sum of $600 was appropriated for a new bridge over Mattaponi Branch on the road from Old Brandywine to Cheltenham.

J. J. Crowley, chief of police, appeared before the board to ask for a new office for his men in the courthouse at Marlboro. He was told that some better site than the present office would be sought.

U.S. Court in Alexandria Hears $200,000 Lawsuit

The United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, Judge Luther B. Way, presiding, is in session in Alexandria. The jury is composed of the following: Mansfield Brown, Bere, Va.; J. P. Balster, Lyon Village; A. H. Buell, Herndon; Robert F. Ballinger, Falls Church; Walter H. Cloe, Alexandria; James E. Chinn, Clarendon; W. S. Elgin, Fairfax; Joseph S. Everly, Alexandria; W. H. Hosmer, Clarendon; Thomas Luces and Hudson Martin, Alexandria.

A suit to recover the sum of $200,000 was in progress yesterday, styled Bank of Pittsburgh, National Association, a national bank, against Mrs. Edith H. Nesbit, of Warrenton. The suit is based on a promissory note alleged to bear the indorsement of the defendant and dated November 12, 1930, and interest is sought from April 1, 1931.

Rockville Pastor Quits; Blames Church Friction

Resignation of the Rev. Bertram N. Osgood as pastor of the Rockville Baptist Church was announced yesterday by Mr. Osgood to become effective December 1. The resignation was submitted at a meeting of the congregation.

Mr. Osgood explained that he had resigned because of friction between himself and members of the congregation. He has been pastor of the church for six years and in that time probably has married more couples than any other minister in the county. His church is across the street from the courthouse in Rockville, Md., and handy to eloping couples. Mr. Osgood has not announced his plans for the future.

Mrs. Ralph A. Wells was elected president of the Seven Oaks Manor Citizens Association at a meeting held at the home of George W. Davis, retiring president. George H. Butler was elected vice president; Mrs. Guy Neal, secretary, and Mr. Neal, treasurer.

The association voted to apply for membership in the Montgomery County Civic Federation. Messrs. Davis, Neal and Butler were elected delegates, and Henry A. Lepper and Mr. and Mrs. Wells, alternates.

MAYOR'S CONTEMPT CHARGE DISMISSED

Judge Quashes Accusation of Lawyer by Falls Church Official at Hearing.

The charge of contempt of court placed against Homer Randolph, Arlington County, Va., attorney, by Mayor L. P. Daniel, of Falls Church, in the mayor's court September 6 was dismissed yesterday by Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, where it was heard on an appeal from the mayor's decision.

The case grew out of a hearing before Mayor Daniel on R. K. Dean, who was charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Thomas was appearing for Dean, who was found guilty. Thomas was alleged to have said, "I imagine so" in commenting on the verdict in a contemptuous manner.

Judge McCarthy, in dismissing the charge for which Thomas was fined $5 and costs by the mayor, stated that "it was in no way a contemptuous statement, as alleged by the mayor." He also declared that a person had a right to criticize a judicial decision so long as such remarks are not personal.

The appeal of Dean was affirmed by Judge McCarthy, who imposed a fine of $100 and costs in both the mayor's and the circuit court and 30 days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended.

The appeal from Mayor Daniels' decision in the case of Thomas Morris Frazier, charged with the possession of liquor, was also heard. Frazier was fined $250 and costs and given six months in jail by the mayor's court, but this was reduced yesterday by Judge McCarthy to $100 and costs and three months in jail suspended.

MAN IN ALEXANDRIA DIES AFTER TUMBLE

W. E. Todd, 68, Fell on Steps at Home Where He Was Visiting.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Walter E. Todd, 68 years old, died yesterday morning about an hour after being taken to the Alexandria Hospital to be treated for injuries received when he fell down a stairway at 315 Queen street where he was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Preston George. In descending the stairs he missed his footing and fell, suffering a fractured skull.

Dr. W. E. Bettie, city coroner, issued a certificate of accidental death on the report of Detective Sergeant James Baylias, who investigated the case. Mrs. George stated she heard the fall and went into the hallway, finding Mr. Todd lying by the stairway. She telephoned for the ambulance.

Mr. Todd was a resident of Tollin, Mass., and was a carpenter. He was on a two weeks' visit to Mr. and Mrs. George, and had been here one week. He was a widower, and his son, Earl Todd, who lives in Maryland, was sent for and came to Alexandria yesterday.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Cunningham funeral home, conducted by the Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester, pastor of the Del Ray Methodist Episcopal Church South. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Percy Crosby Disabled, Excuse to Grand Jury

Percy L. Crosby, cartoonist, of McLean, Va., yesterday explained his failure to report for grand jury service Monday at the opening of the September term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, through Mrs. Crosby.

Mrs. Crosby said the artist is in bed under the care of physicians with a badly cut foot, and has been disabled four days. Mrs. Crosby said that this had been explained to the Fairfax County police, and it must have been through an oversight that his absence was not explained to Judge McCarthy.

Prince Georges Accepts $468 Conscience Fund

A "conscience fund" of $468 which has been worrying Prince Georges County officials for nearly a year was finally disposed of yesterday when the county commissioners agreed to accept the money. It will be credited, probably, to the surplus fund.

The money was received by Brice Bowie when he was county treasurer. An anonymous letter which accompanied the money order stated that the sender believed he owed the sum in taxes. Mr. Bowie was unable to credit the amount to any tax account and held the money orders without cashing them. Later he was appointed clerk to the circuit court and yesterday asked the commissioners to make some definite disposal of the money. The time limit for cashing the order will soon expire.

Democrats to Meet In Virginia Highlands

The Virginia Highlands Precinct Democratic committee will hold an open meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Jefferson Firemen's Hall. Among the speakers will be William L. Bragg, county chairman; Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers, president of the Arlington County Democratic Woman's Club; Robert N. Anderson, president of the Men's Club, and John C. Gall, member of the county board.

Tomorrow night at Democratic headquarters, the Reese Building at Clarendon, there will be a meeting of all new voters. The purpose of this meeting, Chairman Bragg says, is to perfect an organization known as the Young Democratic Voters League of Arlington County.

Takoma Park Treasurer Is Not Yet Agreed Upon

No decision as to appointment of a clerk and treasurer for Takoma Park, Md., was reached at a special meeting of the mayor and council held Monday midnight following the regular council meeting. The office has been vacant since August 1, when Bryan Davis was relieved from duty by Mayor Frederick L. Lewton.

The council discussed at length the advisability of separating the offices or to consolidate the offices as had been done while Davis held office. It did decide, however, that the bond should be increased considerably since the treasurer is handling much more money than was the case formerly.

DR. W. B. CANNON, 38, TO BE BURIED TODAY

Last Rites for Son of Bishop to Be Held in Arlington National Cemetery.

Funeral services for Dr. W. B. Cannon, 38, son of Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, who died suddenly Sunday at the Hampton, Va., Veterans' Hospital, where he served as a surgeon, will be held at 9:30 a. m. today at the Fort Myer Chapel, followed by interment in Arlington Cemetery.

Dr. Cannon recently was transferred from the regional veterans' hospital in Nashville, Tenn., to the post in Hampton. He made his residence in Washington during the year of 1930 while he was training at the Veterans' Administration here.

The 38-year-old surgeon was born in Farmville, Va. He was a graduate of Duke University and received his medical degree at the University of Virginia.

Bishop Cannon, who was in Davenport, Iowa, when informed of his son's death, will arrive in Washington this morning for the services, which will be conducted by Dr. E. L. Crawford, associate of Bishop Cannon, and Dr. William A. Shelton, pastor of the Mount Vernon Methodist Church here.

Besides his widow, the former Miss Ernestine Jacobs, of Carthage, Mo., and an 8-year-old daughter, Lura Virginia Cannon, Dr. Cannon is survived by four brothers, Edward and David Cannon, of Washington; B. M. Cannon, of El Monte, Calif., and Dr. James Cannon 3d, of Duke University, and two sisters, Mrs. H. C. Stockham, of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Lura Stevens, of Norfolk, Va.

$5,000 Asked for Crash Hurts.

A $5,000 damage suit for injuries he received in an automobile accident was filed in Prince Georges County Circuit Court yesterday by Sylvester Malone, of Edmonston, against Charles G. Renno, of Hyattsville. Malone, alleging Renno was driver of an automobile which struck him in Colmar Manor last May, says he suffered two broken ribs, a sprained shoulder and internal injuries.

THEY'RE MILDER
THEY TASTE BETTER

YOU would be astonished too, if you could see this machine that turns out 750 Chesterfields a minute . . . and every one as near perfect as cigarettes can be made.

But please bear this in mind. It is what happens before the tobacco goes into this machine that matters most. Rolling and packaging are important, but not nearly as important as the selection, blending and treatment of the tobacco.

That's why we keep telling you about the tobaccos used in Chesterfields. They're fine, mild, and pure tobaccos. We tell you about ageing and curing the tobaccos . . . about blending and cross-blending them . . . because they are things that count.

Chesterfields are milder. They taste better. Prove it for yourself . . . Just try a package.

HOOVER TO SPEAK.

President Hoover is to speak at Des Moines on October 4. Two other addresses by him are expected later in the month. Several addresses by Gov. Roosevelt are yet to be delivered on his western tour. Before election day all voters will have an opportunity to compare the policies of the two candidates, and to form judgment as to which candidate is best qualified to administer national affairs.

The President has an advantage over his opponent in some respects, and is under a disadvantage in others. He possesses vastly more knowledge than Gov. Roosevelt concerning national problems and the practicability of proposed solutions. He has incomparably wider experience in dealing with economic questions. He can present to the people a program for economic relief which is the composite effort of many able men, Democrats as well as Republicans, and which is actually law of the land and now in process of execution, and not a mere theory of untested value, which might or might not be acceptable to Congress after a long and costly delay. Mr. Hoover can speak with the authority of his great office, and can reveal factors of the national problem about which Gov. Roosevelt must necessarily be ignorant.

The President is at a disadvantage on the stump because he can not decently enter into a controversy. He can not indulge in personalities when Gov. Roosevelt accuses him of deliberate fraud in dealing with the farm problem. It is provocative of anger in any man to be accused of bad faith, but a President must keep his temper and rely upon the public sense of fair play to protect him against personal abuse.

In making a public address the President is in effect rendering an account of his stewardship. The people are entitled to an accounting from him, and a report of facts bearing upon their situation. No one can render this account so completely as the President himself. He would not be performing his full duty if he should remain silent during the campaign and permit citizens to pass judgment upon faulty information or misrepresentation of facts. It is their welfare as well as his political fortune, which hangs upon the election.

Throughout the formation of the national reconstruction program and its enactment into law the President has given full credit to the Democrats who co-operated for the public welfare. No doubt he will continue to give such credit. In doing so he will heap coals of fire upon his opponent, who can not attack the program now in effect without attacking Democratic leaders who have helped the President to shape plans which are extricating the nation from its difficulties.

Gov. Roosevelt has a difficult part to play, in trying to convince the American people that the relief measures now bringing about a return of good times should all be scrapped in favor of theories that have not passed through the Congress baptism of fire. It is asking a great deal to take on faith the assurance that a new man, untried and inexperienced in national affairs, could present an entirely new partisan plan of national reconstruction, push it through a cantankerous Congress, and restore prosperity sooner than it can be restored by the plan that has already been approved by leaders of both parties, after months of competent study, and which is now in nonpartisan operation. It may be that the people will put a stop to the recuperation of their own condition for the sake of trying Gov. Roosevelt's untested substitute; but they are entitled to know more before they act. President Hoover can furnish much information regarding national affairs which will be of value to Gov. Roosevelt as well as to the voters.

LABOR INDORSES TARIFF.

A concerted drive against the tariff policy enunciated by Gov. Roosevelt at Topeka is under way. The address by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, before the American Wage Earners' Protective conference, can be interpreted only as a call to arms against the Democratic tariff policy. Mr. Woll referred to Gov. Roosevelt only indirectly as a "well-meaning, but ill-advised" friend, but he left no question as to the opposition of organized labor to the Democratic nominee's tariff program.

This vigorous opposition to lower industrial duties coincides with a campaign that is being conducted by the National Association of Manufacturers to inform workingmen as to their stake in tariff legislation. Thousands of industrial establishments all over the country will put cards in the pay envelopes of their employes to impress them with the necessity of maintaining the American protective policy. One card prepared by the national association reads as follows:

> Lower tariff means more imported goods. More imported goods means less goods made in America. Less goods made in America means less work. Less work means more unemployment.

Neither organized labor nor the organized industrialists consider these activities political. Workingmen are not asked to favor either nominee, but to vote in accordance with their own economic interests. Both groups are convinced that "unrestrained competition of foreign with domestic goods in our home market, whether agricultural or industrial products, can not and will not solve our problems, but contribute to their severity."

Mr. Woll advanced a cogent argument against reduction of the industrial tariff structure. "It is well enough," he said, "for theorists in tariff to spin their arguments and recite their formulas, but our wage earners do not live by those things. They live by jobs and wages." In American manufacturing plants the average wage is 60 cents per hour. In France it is 12 cents; Italy, 9 cents and in Japan, 7 cents. Impairment of the protective policy means forcing American workers into competition with this pauper labor. Some foreign nations have adopted American methods of production while continuing to pay starvation wages. Advantages once enjoyed by American labor because of its superior efficiency are being diminished. It is not surprising that organized labor is alarmed at the prospects of losing the benefits now accruing from the tariff.

Gov. Roosevelt advocates lower duties and the importation of more goods on the theory that foreign nations would then be able to pay their debts and American farmers could sell their surplus crops abroad. Mr. Woll replies that "to enlarge the importation of goods produced abroad by labor akin to forced labor, governmental subsidized labor, low paid and child labor of Europe and Asia can only lead to further unemployment in America with its consequent enlarged demoralization of our economic, industrial, social and political structures." He insists that "the essential problem is to increase the employment opportunities of our people by lessening foreign competition in our home market, thus enabling our home industries to revive and survive."

In attempting to prescribe a tariff policy that would aid the farmer, Gov. Roosevelt has antagonized labor. The workingman has his back to the wall. It is not to be supposed that he will acquiesce in any scheme to aid the farmer at the expense of labor. With more than 8,000,000 men unemployed, the proponents of any scheme to increase foreign competition in industrial products may expect it to be scrutinized by organized labor. If the labor revolt against Gov. Roosevelt sweeps throughout the industrial sections, its effect may more than offset any popularity he gained as a result of his address on farm relief.

GANDHI'S FAST.

Mahatma Gandhi has always been more or less incomprehensible to the western world. His decision to starve himself to death in protest against the electoral representation plan proposed for India by the British government adds a dramatic climax to his weird career. By devoting his life to the Indian cause Gandhi has been unable to achieve his aims. Perhaps he thinks his incarceration has terminated his usefulness in life, and that his death will be a most potent influence in the crusade for India's freedom.

While Gandhi's fast is interpreted as a challenge to the British government, it is in reality a protest against the division among his own people. For years Britain has cooperated with the Indian leaders in their efforts to evolve an electoral system that would be equitable to all factions and protect the interests of the minorities. Gandhi has failed to effect the necessary compromise with or without British cooperation. Premier MacDonald announced his plan, giving separate representation to 60,000,000 "untouchables" and other minorities in the provisional legislatures, only when all efforts to secure an agreement among the Indian factions had become hopelessly deadlocked. This plan is tentative. If the Indians can agree upon some other workable electoral system, the plan advanced in London will be withdrawn. Another Indian conference is being planned to aid that project. Internal strife and not the differences between Britain and India is the root from which Gandhi's bitter cup is brewed.

In view of this situation Gandhi's proposed suicide is astounding. The world has accepted Gandhi as a philosopher and a great moral leader. When he stoops to the tactics of the publicity seeker and the voluntary martyr, he detracts from the qualities that have made him a world figure. It is difficult to surmise what the Indian people may think of a leader who supposes he can be of greater service by starving himself to death than by continuing the struggle for independent government, but in this country Gandhi probably will arouse little sympathy. The American mind revolts against an appeal to the emotions in matters where the intellect should rule.

If Gandhi carries out this fast "unto death," he will probably succeed only in removing himself from the scene of turmoil without making any contribution to the final denouement.

THE POLITICAL BEGGAR.

Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania makes another effort to squeeze out some political advantage for himself at the expense of the self-respect of his State. He appears in the double role of a beggar for Federal funds, at the hands of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, while impugning the good faith of the corporation. He demands that President Hoover shall intervene with the corporation, to force it to do what the law may or may not permit it to do.

President Hoover patiently asks Gov. Pinchot to read the law upon which the mendicant governor relies for a loan. The President has no authority to direct the Reconstruction Corporation to make loans. If Gov. Pinchot was ignorant of the law, he is better informed now. If he knew the law, he was merely playing the congenial part of a demagogue when he made public his false appeal to the President.

Whether Gov. Pinchot succeeds or fails in his demand for a loan, he has been triumphantly successful in advertising himself as foremost among all who try to make politics out of the work of national relief of distress. In doing so he has stigmatized Pennsylvania as being unable or unwilling to maintain its self-respect. Pennsylvania may relish this publicity, but the rest of the country is sick and tired of the Pinchot brand of political mendicancy.

JOHN GARNER'S MOTHER.

In the midst of his busy life, Speaker John N. Garner is suddenly called upon to bear a cruel and heavy burden—the loss of his mother. Instant sympathy goes to him from the heart of every man. The hurly-burly of the world must sound faint and dim to John Garner as he suffers the loosening of the golden cord that binds every son to his mother. His memory runs back to old days, back before manhood, back to boyhood, even back to infancy; and tears spring from eyes "long unused to flow" when a mother's tenderness is remembered in a thousand small things.

Speaker Garner's mother lived and died in the pioneer west—a lowly life, but full of loving kindness to her family and her neighbors. She was blessed with long life, and in turn she gave blessings to others. As John Garner closes the last chapter of this part of his life and returns to the workaday world his pride and comfort will rest upon the thought of his mother's goodness. Nobility is of the soul. It flowers on the plains of Texas as well as in palaces, and takes on an added glory when it adorns the meek and lowly.

One thing the public can be thankful for this year is that crooning is not a political language.

VANISHED RELICS

From the New York Sun.

Going back to Rome or to Athens? Look closely at the remains of stately columns in some of the old Greek temples, admire, but also examine, some of the beautiful mosaic floors in the ruins of ancient houses, and try to recall how these vestiges of classic art and architecture appeared eight or ten years ago. They may have aged more in a decade than in all the centuries before they were uncovered to modern eyes. On a recent visit abroad a geologist of Williams College, Prof. H. F. Cleland, made this disappointing observation, and in the Scientific Monthly he reports with some suggestion of anger how the sun, wind and rain have damaged many fine relics of antiquity.

Man recovers what nature buried in former ages, and, as if in retaliation, the weather attacks and destroys the things man holds so precious. In the crumbling ruins of Olympia, in the walls of temples at Delphi, in the faded mosaics of Carthage, this was the lesson Prof. Cleland read. He goes so far as to advise reburying some of the Greek and Roman antiquities after they have been thoroughly studied. He urges encouragement of research to devise better preservatives to protect treasures he fears will be lost to posterity.

Fourteen years ago archeologists in Rome uncovered a basilica of the second century. This monument, says Prof. Cleland, "was most spectacular with the entire surface of its vaults, walls and piers covered with pure white stucco reliefs which glistened in the artificial light." Now the building is almost a wreck. Patches of stucco have been discolored and loosened by moisture. At Delos many old mosaics are fading in the sun. Herds of goats romp across some of the mosaics at Carthage. Carved slabs of gypsum used by the Minoans for wainscoting and discovered at Cnossus are warped and cracked since exposure to weather.

Similar "crimes of archeology" may be committed in America, Prof. Cleland believes, if after costly restoration Mayan temples in Yucatan are allowed to remain without stone preservatives. Beholding the damage already done by weathering in Greece and Rome, he says, that "any statuary or other work of art should not be removed unless it is probable that these objects will be kept in their present condition for a thousand years." That may seem too much to ask, for to be effective the same ideal would need to be fostered among diggers of every generation. Some losses may be prevented through proper preservation. Durable reproductions should be made of the best antiquities in case preservatives fail, but it would be ironic if future students found themselves working to preserve the reproductions long after the originals have vanished.

"Their Rally Cry!"

POST HASTE.

Gov. Roosevelt's Montana speech was a Butte, but the miners know that a monetary conference with the accent on sound money doesn't make much noise for silver.

Why couldn't the Governor say more? Because the relative importance of the American silver mining industry is this: A 100 per cent increase in the price of silver would amount to less than a 5 per cent rise in the price of wheat.

"Bandits strike terror in twelve counties in England." Mayor Cermak got away just in time to escape charges of Chicago complicity.

Evidently Gov. Roosevelt is saving his declaration on the bonus to deliver it in Portland, on the spot where the Legion demanded it.

If a yes or no answer on the bonus can be left as indefinite as remedies for agriculture, railroads and silver, we'll hand it to the Gov.

Vice President Woll, of the American Federation of Labor, supports the protective tariff because American industrial workers receive six times the average hourly wage paid in France, Italy and Japan. That's a half-dozen reasons.

Paraguay and Bolivia agree to a truce. Now to see how the stiff-necked ministries in Asuncion and La Paz can reconcile their consciences for the useless sacrifice of life in the Chaco wilderness.

F. D. R.'s tabloid platform: "Faith in the possibility of change—of progress—of a new deal." But off the top of the deck?

No ethical quietude for McAdoo if he goes to the Senate. He threatens a hueylong policy right from the start.

Said to lack a sense of humor, the way caudal Tokyo agitates the big Manchurian mongrel entails waggish qualities unsuspected in Japan.

Football starts Saturday. Some of the undergrads who can only attend games in their raccoons will be smothered.

Prof. Norman Thomas is bound to hold a large proportion of his radical following because they can't understand what he is talking about.

As though New York hadn't had its Hylan fling, the Walker antithesis—you-said-a-mouthful-King—is talking of running again.

But the most striking change ex-Mayor Jimmy is likely to find on his return to New York is a sign on City Hall highway reading: "Do not enter—one-way street."

If it's possible there is no industrial improvement and Republicans are just wasting that increase in electric power to startle Democrats, it's shocking. PAUL HUDSON.

OPIUM AND ECONOMICS.

The Bangkok opium conference, held under the auspices of the League of Nations, appears to have been a total failure. From reports emanating from Geneva, says the Cleveland Dispatch, there seems to have been little effort made to add force to international agreements or to take decisive steps toward abolishing the system of government participation in the narcotic traffic.

As a matter of fact, government revenues took precedence over every other consideration, including the welfare of the people of the Far East for whom opium is spelling physical and moral death. Here, in a nutshell, is the obstacle to American efforts to stem the rising tide of the drug habit in this country. It is impossible to strike at the source of the evil as long as Far Eastern governments are virtually a party to it and choose to remain so.

Temptation Never Overcomes One Who Doesn't Fool the Neighbors.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A STORE is built at a cross roads, a mill takes advantage of a waterfall, or a dock is constructed at the edge of a waterway and there a town begins.

Manufacture and transportation require workers and workers require goods and service. A new market for merchandise and skill attracts settlers. Men build homes, a temple and a school. A government is established.

In such a community there is little if any dishonesty. The administration of community affairs costs little and taxes are light. Each man knows the source of his neighbor's wealth. Everybody knows how much tax money is collected and how it is spent and why.

Conditions are ideal for the development of civic virtue. There never is sufficient public money to tempt those who handle it, and there never is sufficient privacy to give the knave a promise of security. It isn't difficult to remain honest where there is little to steal and little chance to escape detection.

But as the village grows into a city, these conditions are reversed. The yearly tax revenue becomes a vast fortune. It is a golden stream that flows through many hands into many channels. It seems to belong to nobody. A portion of it might disappear without being traced or missed. And citizens are now strangers to one another, ignorant of one another's affairs, and no longer able to recognize dishonest gains. What is more, community affairs have become so complicated that officials themselves are unable to watch each detail or verify the need of each expenditure.

The trap is set. Fabulous wealth lies exposed and no one is watching. Temptation has reached perfection.

The result is civic history—a history of dishonesty. Officials have power and power is a commodity easily sold. Men buy the right to violate building codes, to break moral laws, to fatten on vice. Custom makes graft respectable. Men who rank high in business and social life grow rich on favors that drain the public treasury.

Does civilization, then, make men dishonest? No; it is opportunity that trips them—the chance to get away with it.

The cause suggests the remedy. Remove the temptation. Require complete and detailed publicity; print and explain every transaction of public business, even to the price paid for paper cups.

The chief supports of righteousness are the watchful eyes of the neighbors.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

For Roosevelt-Garner.

Houston Post.

There is not the slightest ground fear that the Democracy of Texas will fail to give the national Democratic ticket full support, because of the division among the Democrats of the State over gubernatorial candidates and State issues. Texas will give the Roosevelt-Garner ticket a bigger majority in November than it has ever given a Democratic ticket in the past.

There are several reasons for that prospect. To begin with, Texas has a larger population than ever before. In the next place, the people are voting in unprecedented numbers in Texas this year. Never before has the electorate been so thoroughly aroused to the duty of going to the polls and voting. Almost 1,000,000 votes were cast in the recent Democratic primaries. The November national election in all probability will get out the biggest vote ever cast in a presidential election in this State.

Indianapolis Star.

The queerest mixture of optimism and pessimism is the concern that fears, when beer comes back, there will be a shortage of brew in the United States.

Watch Congress!

Cincinnati Enquirer.

It is particularly vital this year that attention be centered on candidates for Congress. It is more than likely that the whole problem of economy and reorganization, entailing a promised 20 per cent cut in Federal expenses and announced by the President for consideration in December, will go over to the new Congress. The voter must be sure that the new Congress is one which will not fiddle with politics, yapping groups, lobbies, while industry and business burn.

It's Al Smith's Turn Now.

Kansas City Times.

Once more Gov. Roosevelt has found occasion to express his friendship and admiration for former Gov. Smith. Mr. Roosevelt assures an editor of a Hastings, N. Y., paper that nothing has happened to alter either his friendship for Mr. Smith "or my confidence in his splendid ability as a statesman and leader." Could anything more be necessary or desired? Why not speak up, Al, and end the suspense?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

New Biography of John Witherspoon, Washington's Friend.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "John Witherspoon, George Washington's Close Friend and Sponsor," is the title of a compactly written brochure just from the press. It shows painstaking research and careful discrimination in the selection of material. This book gives brief items of biography of the subject and graphic incidents in his career in his native Scotland and in this country, which show him to have been one of the most prominent of his contemporaries in matters literary, educational, civic, patriotic and theological, whole-hearted and effective in all his undertakings and versatile in a marked degree.

This book shows Witherspoon, and justly, as the one man on whom more than any other rested the responsibility of launching the American Revolution and pushing it to a successful issue. He inspired its leaders by the manifestation of his own indomitable personality and fiery patriotism.

The reading of this book will refresh the minds of Americans regarding heroic struggles of their ancestors in the establishment of this Nation. From its reading youth should get their minds filled with the eternal principles of justice and righteousness which were not only essential to the successful consummation of the American enterprise in its beginnings, but to the perpetuation of its glorious purposes. ANOTHER AMERICAN.

Sir Walter Scott's Amazing Labors, Under Physical Handicaps Recalled on Centenary of His Death.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Sir Walter Scott, who was born in Edinburgh on August 15, 1771, died 100 years ago today. When he was an infant he had an attack of fever which left him permanently lame. Because of this unfortunate condition he was often irritable and excitable; hence, when a mere child, he was left to follow his own inclinations. It was at this time that he started to accumulate his vast knowledge of romantic lore, which he put to such splendid use in future years in his novels and poems. He was very studious and brilliant in his youthful years. When a schoolboy he acquainted himself with French to the extent that he was able to read and understand collections of French romances. At the age of 15 he learned Italian in order to read the originals of Dante and Ariosto. Even though lame and having suffered serious illness in his youth, he stood well to the fore in the boyish activities at high school.

He pursued the study of law. He wanted to accept a position that would enable him to have some spare time to devote to his literary pursuits. He married Charlotte Charpentier in 1797, the daughter of a French refugee. In 1806 he obtained the reversion of the office of the clerk of session, which kept him hard at work for at least three or four hours daily during six months out of the twelve while the court was in session. He discharged these duties faithfully for 25 years, during the height of his activity as an author.

Some of his outstanding poems are "The Lay of the First Minstrel," "Marmion" and "The Lady of the Lake." His novels, many of which were written anonymously, include "Waverley," "The Lord of the Isles," "Guy Mannering," "The Field of Waterloo," "The Black Dwarf," "Old Mortality," "Rob Roy," "Kenilworth" and "Ivanhoe." Among his works read by children in the schools are "Ivanhoe," "The Lady of the Lake" and "The Lay of the Last Minstrel."

Because of the failure of his publishers with whom he was affiliated, Scott had thrown upon him a personal responsibility of 130,000 pounds. He toiled at his literary work diligently in order to lift this burden, declining all offers for assistance. The terrific strain under which he was laboring caused him to have a paralytic stroke in February, 1830. Even after this he continued his labors. He died on September 21, 1832, and was buried in Dryburgh Abbey.

Hoover Already Putting Into Effect Railroad Aid Suggested by Roosevelt.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: After hearing many Democrats criticize President Hoover for saving the railroads from ruin by wisely extending them Government aid, I was greatly surprised to read Gov. Roosevelt's rail relief plan, in which he suggests many modifications of the Nation's transportation systems that had already been proposed by Mr. Hoover and are now being put into effect. EDWARD D. JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A ROSE BUSH TALKS.

"Take it!" the rose bush seemed to say.
"Cut now my loveliest bloom away
And wear it in your coat.
Or let it nestle in the hair
Of the dark maiden young and fair,
Whose eyes deep love denote.
Roses should have their fortunes told
Before the night wind grows too cold.

"I grieve not that my fairest blooms
Are cut and carried into rooms
Where lonely people stay,
Or that a small boy, passing by,
Discovers me with eager eye
And bears my best away,
Calling his mother out to see
The miracle God works through me.

"That is my life. My failure lies
In bearing blooms that men despise
And scorn to cut at all,
To hear the gardener say: 'Leave them
Untouched to wither on the stem.
Such blossoms are too small.'
Even a rose bush feels a sneer
And wants its blossoms welcome here."

G.A.R.-CONFEDERATE PARADE IS PROPOSED

Former's 66th Encampment Receives Plan for Review by President.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The "Yanks" and the "Rebs"—enemies of the Civil War—may bury the hatchet at last and march arm in arm for a grand review by the President of the United States.

Joe Page, 87, Civil War veteran and editor of the Jersey County (Ill.) Democrat, made the suggestion by letter today to the 2,000 aged delegates attending the sixty-sixth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Page suggested the Confederate veterans be permitted to fly the "stars and bars" in the line of march, the flag to be furled as they passed the reviewing stand, and the line to proceed with "Old Glory at the head." That, he wrote, "would show there was a united Nation."

Samuel P. Town, Philadelphia, commander in chief of the G. A. R., said: "Page can keep his suggestion." Some delegates, however, took kindly to the idea and said the matter might come up for action.

The encampment, in the main, rested today for the review tomorrow when the veterans will pass before Town and his staff. The line of march will be but nine blocks, many of the veterans being too feeble to walk further. Some will ride in automobiles.

A delegation of 150 today went to old Camp Butler, national burial ground, for memorial services. The commander's reception and ball were other high spots on the program.

Organization politics occupied discussion today. Apparently, delegates said, Capt. William P. Wright, Chicago, would be elected commander over Col. Russell C. Martin, Los Angeles, and Harding I. Merrill, Wichita, Kans. In the Sons of Union Veterans, Titus Ruch, Hellerton, Pa., and Park Yengling, Bay Village, Ohio, appeared as rivals to head the organization.

The G. A. R. Auxiliary tomorrow will choose between Mrs. Carrie Wilson, Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. Jean Bowers Thompson, Elgin, Ill. The nominating committee of the Daughters of Union Veterans selected Mrs. Doris Merryman, Toledo, for president, and Mrs. Dorothy Hoghton, Wichita, Kans., as senior vice president.

Gen. Glassford Orders Police Bureau Survey

A survey of all special bureaus and squads was ordered yesterday by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, to determine if any man could be used on other assignments in the service.

Larger details on the streets, he said, were of greater benefit than clerks in bureau offices, where there was insufficient work to keep them busy.

U.S. UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF SPEEDED UP

Labor Department Reports Work Steadily Gains in Eastern Area.

(Associated Press.)

Administration of the huge unemployment relief funds provided by Congress was speeded up yesterday by governmental agencies. Simultaneously the Labor Department reported that July's employment gains were well sustained through August.

In its monthly industrial employment information bulletin, the Labor Department said "the improvement in the industrial-employment situation revealed in the July report released by the United States employment service was well sustained throughout August, with further increases in activities reported in certain sections of the country."

Carrying out the provisions of the unemployment relief act, the Navy Department announced plans for a $10,000,000 shore construction program extending from Boston to Hawaii and unofficially estimated to provide work for 4,000 men.

At the same time the Reconstruction Corporation, seeking to speed up the diffusion of $1,500,000,000 provided by Congress for loans on self-liquidating projects, created a national advisory board of engineers to facilitate consideration of small projects eligible for loans under the self-liquidating fund to send in their applications.

The Labor Department also reported that harvesting kept thousands engaged in the farming areas, with operations speeded up in canning factories.

"Building continued to lag," it added, "behind the volume usually apparent at this period of the year. Operating schedules and forces were again increased in the textile industry, especially in those mills located in the New England and South Atlantic States, and full time prevailed in many of the establishments producing woolen and cotton goods, hosiery and rayon and silk.

"Plants manufacturing boots and shoes kept their forces fairly well engaged in most instances, and in several localities increased employment was noted among these workers.

"A number of the shipbuilding yards along the Eastern seaboard increased their forces. Employment in the iron and steel mills, automobile factories and many other industries remained on a curtailed basis, with large surpluses of skilled and unskilled labor still apparent, especially in the more thickly populated sections.

"There was a further expansion in the volume of highway construction with the granting of new Federal aid and State and county road contracts, which resulted in employment for many additional workers."

Denver, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—W. F. Jackson, of Fort Scott, Kans., today was elected grand sire of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, governing body of the International Order of Odd Fellows, in convention here. The selection was unanimous.

James H. Davis, of Tacoma, Wash., was successful in the only contest for office—that of deputy grand sire. He was elected over a field of seven candidates. J. Edward Kroh, of Baltimore, was elected secretary, and William E. Cox, of Marysville, Ky., treasurer. Jackson will succeed Joseph Powley, of Toronto, Ont., Canada, as grand sire.

Springfield, Ill., was selected as the 1933 convention city.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Three physicians were called into consultation today over the illness of Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the senator from Idaho, who is ill with influenza. In a brief bulletin her physician, Dr. Ralph Falk, said:

"Mrs. Borah is seriously though not at the moment critically ill. She has influenza and shows an increase in her chest involvement. Drs. E. E. Laubaugh, J. H. Stewart and H. E. Dedman have been in consultation."

DANUBE BODY URGES BIG GRAIN AID FUND

Draft of Stabilizing Pact Is Approved in Principle for Geneva Study.

Stresa, Italy, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The Danubian conference tonight approved in principle a draft convention recommending, among other steps, the creation of a grain stabilization fund of 75,000,000 gold francs to relieve distress in central and southeastern Europe. (The equivalent of 75,000,000 gold Swiss francs is $15,000,000.)

After approving a report of the financial committee, and deciding to pass along that report together with one from an economic and agrarian committee to a commission of the European union for study at Geneva, the conference adjourned.

The financial committee in its final report recommended direct negotiation between debtors and creditors for settlement of short-term debts, with special regard for the needs of the individual debtor nations, and provisional mitigation for long-term credit.

This committee also referred to the creation of a fund for currency stabilization, recommending contributions from all States adhering to the draft convention. The convention itself was approved in principle, but Germany declared herself unable to contribute financial aid to the Danubian states.

The agrarian committee recommendations advocated creation of the 75,000,000-franc fund to subsidize the exportable surplus of Danubian grain—wheat to be given a subsidy of 2 francs per quintal, and barley and maize, 1.50 francs per quintal.

Prefacing its report, the financial committee said the positions of the states of eastern and central Europe being "substantially different, it was decided merely to advance proposals of a general character applicable to all."

It was emphasized that a paramount necessity was the maintaining of balanced budgets.

2 EXPERTS TO VIEW BOY KILLED IN RIOT

Solution of Strike Disorder Death in Jersey Seen in Bullet Caliber.

South River, N. J., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Dr. Otto Schultze, former assistant medical examiner of New York, and Detective Joseph Cocozza, a ballistics expert, were asked today to make an examination of the body of 9-year-old Walter Rojek to determine the caliber of the bullet that killed him.

The boy was killed in a fight late yesterday between sympathizing friends and relatives of striking women needleworkers and South River police and 32 private detectives.

An examination of the boy's body by Dr. L. A. M. Feher, acting Middlesex County physician, failed to reveal the bullet which passed through his head. It was decided then to call on Dr. Schultze, famed for his autopsies.

As authorities continued their investigation of the disorder, five men who were among the crowd yesterday were arrested and taken to the county jail in default of $5,000 bail each. They pleaded not guilty before Recorder James Black to charges of "obstructing and interfering with police officers while acting in the line of duty" and assault and battery.

Warrants were sworn by local policemen. The men were Victor Ploskon, 20; Edward Litz, 20; Edward Chichorek, 18; John Ploskon, 18, and Frank Kreszewski, 40.

All but two of the private detectives were released late in the day from the Middlesex County jail where they were held for questioning. The two who are being held are Peter Collier, 34, and F. M. Majeusk, 36. Bail of $10,000 each was set for them on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

The prosecutor's office said two firearms, a .25 caliber and a .32 caliber, were found on the men.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

CLEMENCE DANE, the English playwright, has returned to England after a fortnight spent with Katharine Cornell in the Bavarian Alps, conferring with the actress on the drama she has written about the Brontes, according to late word from the erudite and vigilant Mr. Ray Henderson, most reliable of the stentors.

No definite date for the production of the play has been set. Having only recently completed her long engagement as Elizabeth Barrett in Rudolf Besier's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," Miss Cornell does not wish to follow this immediately with another historical character, so it is probable that Miss Dane's play will be held back for several months.

Miss Cornell, says Mr. Henderson, will remain in Germany until the end of this month, after which she plans to go to England. She will sail for New York in October to begin preparations for the opening of her season early in December.

Speaking of Clemence Dane, reminds me that the film version of her celebrated play of "A Bill of Divorcement" may possibly be seen in Washington a day or two earlier than has been anticipated.

This is the picture in which the principal roles are played by John Barrymore, Billie Burke and Katherine Hepburn, supported by David Manners, Elizabeth Patterson and Paul Kavanagh, and which was interrupted in the making by the sudden death of Florenz Ziegfeld, Miss Burke's husband, on the coast. It is to follow "Hell's Highway," starring Richard Dix, at RKO-Keith's, and the manner in which it is, perhaps, to burst upon the Capital's theatergoers a little ahead of original schedule has to do, of course, with the playing dates of the Dix vehicle. So now.

Enough travail not having been heaped upon the critical fraternity by the projected premieres of "Back Street," reopening the Rialto tomorrow night at 8:30, and "Strange Interlude," at the National Friday night at the same hour, Manager Hardie Meakin, with rare consideration for the most harassed of the Fourth Estate's sweating serfdom, has decided to pop "Hell's Highway" into Keith's Thursday morning at the regular hour of 11 a. m. Thus it may be gotten out of the way in time to permit "A Bill of Divorcement" also to come in off schedule and further tangle the harried reviewer's already sufficiently complex existence!

The box office at the Rialto, lest you be thwarted in an earnest endeavor to secure your coveted pasteboard for the opening, will be in operation this morning beginning at 10:30, for the benefit of those provident souls desirous of taking time by the fetlock, or something.

This is not to be construed as prima facie evidence that the premiere performance of Fannie Hurst's "Back Street," starring John Boles and Irene Dunne, is to be maneuvered on the reserved seat plan. It does mean, however, that those wishing to secure their seats in advance may do so comfortably, with the management's positive assurance that no more tickets will be sold than there are seats in the house.

By this plan there will be seats for all by whom tickets are purchased, but the choice locations will, in consonance with the common practice of all motion picture houses, be available on the basis of "first come, first served." So now you know.

And since you just can't wait to find out what pictures will follow "A Bill of Divorcement," at RKO-Keith's, the next two will be "The Most Dangerous Game," with Joel McCrea and Leslie Banks, and "The Phantom of Crestwood," the mystery thriller that is now being presented one installment at a time as a sort of guessing game over the radio. Ricardo Cortez and Karen Morley are the featured players in this one.

Fresh from tumults and shoutings in the Middle and Far West, including such commotions as characterized the recent American Legion convention in Portland, Oreg., Secretary of War Hurley bethought him late yesterday afternoon to see just how he looked and sounded when he addressed the legion convention as one with whom the body of delegates were not wholly in sympathy.

So he attended Loew's Palace Theater where his shadow is making speeches in the newsreel and experienced the fulfillment of that plaintive wish, expressed, I hope, by Burns, "Oh, wad some power the giftie gie us," etc.

The experience, cinematographically, is reported to have been wholly agreeable.

Lest from foregoing remarks it be gathered that the life of the dramatic desk is one long, dreary round of persistently penitential duties, Mr. William R. Ferguson, handsomely known to many in the Capital as "Bill," delivered himself of a friendly gesture in the direction of the local reviewers last night among the spacious beauties and luxurious comforts of Loew's Fox Theater.

Although Mr. Ferguson was not personally present—being, I believe, engaged in similar enterprises out Cincinnati way, or somewhere comparably remote—his deputy, the eager and articulate Mr. Norman Pyle, formerly in charge of advertising and publicity for the Loew theaters in this city, in association with City Manager Carter Barron and Eddy Gilmore, Loew's contemporary cymbalwhanger, devoted his genial talents to assuring the success of the surprise fete, of which the piece de resistance was the privilege of previewing Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picturization of Eugene O'Neill's marathon drama, "Strange Interlude," opening Friday night as a road show attraction in the National Theater.

For others who wish to revel in the pleasures of anticipation, "A Night in Holland" may be looked forward to on the terrace of the Hotel Shoreham tonight. "The jolly clack of dancing wooden shoes, the pretty tinkle of Dutch tunes, the sparkling color of decorations a la Netherlands, tasty Dutch dishes," and all that sort of thing—so I am told.

So I'll expect to be seeing you back in circulation.

ZONING BAN IS URGED ON RENDERING PLANT

Enactment of Regulations Is Suggested as Solution by Commerce Chiefs.

A solution for the problem created by the proposed erection of a rendering plant with a 100-foot chimney adjacent to the Washington-Hoover Airport yesterday was offered by aeronautics officials of the Department of Commerce who recommended the enactment of zoning regulations.

The proposed rendering plant and chimney, the officials believe, would constitute a hazard to air navigation. Protection of the public in the use of the air can only be provided by safe avenues of approach and of departure from air terminals, it was pointed out.

Elimination of dangers in airplane operations can only be brought about, it was said, through the application of suitable zoning ordinances.

A committee which studied the problem some time ago recommended that the Federal, State and municipal governments should be given the right to condemn air rights over property contiguous to airports to insure safe approach.

40,000 SEE CUBS CLINCH FLAG BY BEATING PIRATES

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

IN a year when men shudder at investments, Mr. Clark Griffith had reaped handsomely on his $25,000 outlay for Pitcher Monte Weaver. If the owner of the Washington Ball Club desired to engage in a little profit-taking at this time, Weaver would easily bring $50,000 in the open market.

Weaver has been a spring pitcher, and a summer pitcher and a fall pitcher, too, his latest feat accomplished yesterday when he registered his twenty-second victory of the season to set a new mark for rookie pitchers. Weaver has already eclipsed the record set by Wes Ferrell in 1929 when the Cleveland recruit won 21 games and lost 10, and yesterday he bettered the mark of Lefty Gomez, of the Yankees, who won 21 games and lost 9 last year in his first season in the majors.

Warneke, of Cubs, Third Year Up.

If any other 1932 recruit has a better claim than Weaver as the prize rookie of the season, then baseball is the national game in Siam. Lon Warneke, the Cubs' pitching sensation, who has won 22 games and lost 6, is not strictly a rookie, having spent two previous seasons on the Chicago bench. Johnny Allen, of the Yanks, with 16 victories against 3 defeats, has won a large percentage of these games in relief roles.

Johnson hasn't picked spots for Weaver. Five victories over the Athletics attest to his ability. The former Oriole has taken his turn regularly against every club in the circuit and has beaten every club. He has maintained the fast pace he hit at the start of the season and can attribute at least four of his defeats to relief shifts.

Lives Up to Griffith's Prediction.

The success of Weaver is a personal triumph for Clark Griffith, who at every opportunity stole over to Baltimore to watch the right-hander work for the Orioles during the 1931 season. Mr. Griffith went far out on a limb last spring at Biloxi when in concert with Manager Johnson, he declared that if Monte didn't win twenty games for the Nats this year, he (Griffith) knew nothing about pitching or any other phase of baseball.

The explanation of Weaver's success is simple enough. As Johnson put it last spring, he can pitch and he knows how to pitch. The latter half of the statement is accountable for many of his 22 victories. Weaver studied the American League hitters from the day the season opened. He knows where to put the ball and he coordinates mind and arm with the efficiency of a veteran. He's the most experienced rookie pitcher ever to join the Nats.

Slow Start Greatest Shortcoming.

Weaver's chief shortcoming this season has been his inability to warm up quickly. Many of his defeats have been inflicted in the early innings or in relief roles. Once in stride, he has proven his mettle and longer periods in the ball pen recently have increased his effectiveness.

Monte will get a shot at the Athletics in the three-game series at the end of the season which may decide second place. If he wins his game and the Nats by chance beat out the Mackmen for the runner-up money, they can blame it on Weaver's six triumphs over Mack's men.

C. U. Batters Maryland Linemen

Reveal Weakness of Byrd's Team in Scrimmage.

2 Sophomores Named on Old Line Varsity for Saturday.

MARYLAND and Catholic University football teams battled for two hours in an impromptu scrimmage match yesterday at College Park, held in restraint by the two coaching staffs. No attempt was made to keep score.

The weakness this year of the Maryland line was sadly revealed to Coach Byrd as the burly Catholic University forwards ripped open big holes in the Old Liners' front wall, making it frequently necessary for the Maryland backs to haul down the charging C. U. backs.

Offensively Maryland showed very well, spraying Poppelmen and Woods against the C. U. Team like twin thunderbolts, and using Earl Widmyer and Dick Nelson on the wider runs.

Eight Sophomores Selected.

At the conclusion of the long drill Coach Byrd chose the team which will be sent against Washington College Saturday in the opening game on Maryland's tough schedule. Eight of the chosen eleven are sophomores. The line-up will read:

Don DeVeau and Stewart McCaw, ends; Vaul Rouzer and Charles Keenan, tackles; Al Farrell and John McDonald, guards; Tom Webb, center; Ray Poppleman, Dick Nelson, Earl Widmyer and Al Woods, backs; DeVeau, McCaw, Rouzer, Farrell, McDonnell, Webb, Nelson and Widmyer are sophomores. Widmyer, one of the "fastest humans" is on the team by proxy, replacing the injured Paul Kiernan.

Washington College Team Respected.

Maryland is beginning to have some misgivings over its game Saturday against Washington College. The Eastern Shore boys put up a battle last year against perhaps the greatest team in Maryland's grid history, and lost 13-0. This year Washington College retains most of its 1931 veterans, plus several promising sophs.

Tickets for the G. W.-W. and L. game may be obtained at the Colonial athletic office, 2010 H street, as may round-trip tickets to Lexington. Railroads will run special excursion trains, leaving at 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning and returning several hours after the game.

Al Kelly Again Is Star In Georgetown Grid Drill

Al Kelly, the national 70-yard indoor sprint champion of 1931, whom Coach Tom Mills is trying to work into a vital member of the 1932 Georgetown football team, ran wild yesterday at the Hilltop training field in a rough scrimmage between the first and second teams, and seemed to be the answer to a coach's prayer.

Kelly handled the brunt of the ball-carrying assignment of the first team yesterday and ripped off run after run, some of them of 50 yards duration. He appeared equally effective at line plunging and end skirting.

Kelly has developed a new hip shift, which is perhaps the hardest thing to teach a sprinter, that bodes no good for would-be tacklers in open-field running this year. He showed plenty of leg drive in the shorter, harder rushes.

G. W. Holds Secret Drill For Game With W. & L.

On a secret training field, which Coach Jim Pixlee asked the press not to reveal, George Washington University's football team went through one of its final workouts of the warming-up season yesterday.

On the sidelines were four youths who might well make any football team in this end of the country—Ras Nielsen, Nig McCarver, Frank Blackistone and Joe Carter. Nielsen and Blackistone, regular tackle and center, are ineligible under Southern Conference rules, while McCarver, a nine point seven man on the track, and Carter, experienced 1931 varsity back, are still convalescing from injuries received at Camp Letts.

Rumors somewhat heartening to G. W. seeped out of Washington and Lee's football fortress yesterday, and sent a slight note of optimism through the Colonial squad. Rumor has it that the Generals will be in as bad a fix, so far as reserve material is concerned, as will George Washington. Only 26 men are reported left on W. and L. varsity squad.

Wood Attains 124-Mile Speed

Sets New Record in Three Dashes With Miss America X.

ALGONAC, Mich., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Gar Wood brought the world's speedboat record back to the United States today by sending his Miss America X catapulting twice over a measured mile on the St. Clair River here at an average speed of 124.91 statute miles an hour.

The former record, 119.75 miles an hour, was made on Loch Lomond, Scotland, July 18 last, by Kaye Don, British speedboat pilot, who tried unsuccessfully a fortnight ago to wrest the Harmsworth trophy from Wood.

Engines Not Wide Open, Says Wood.

Wood, after the record-breaking run, said Miss America's four 12-cylinder engines had not been wide open in today's effort and that he knew the big, mahogany-hulled thunderbolt could go faster. "How much faster, I can't say," he said. "The motors were making 2,500 revolutoins per minute. Their limit, with safety, is 2,700 R. P. M."

There was little ceremony about today's trials. Wood brought Miss America X out of his boatwell, warmed up the engines with a few preliminary turns out of sight of the measured mile course and then notified the timers he was coming.

He came faster than any human ever before has traveled on water. With a deafening roar from the exhaust of her 48 cylinders, Miss America X shot across the starting line. A streak of glistening brown and she was gone. Less than half a minute and word came back:

Rate of 124.41 Statute Miles Per Hour.

"Miss America covered the statute mile in 28.86 seconds."

A few seconds more and the timers announced: "Time for the nautical mile, 33.32 seconds." Converted into statute miles, this was at the rate of 124.41 miles an hour. "It's a new world's record," the timers announced.

Wood, however, had another run to make, downstream. This dash was clocked at 125.42 miles an hour.

British Seek Ban On Net Cord Shots

Parley Called to Consider Altering the Rule on Phase of Game.

London, Sept. 20 (U.P.).—The advisory committee of the International Lawn Tennis Federation has started investigating the possibilities of eliminating net cord shots in tennis.

Circulars were sent to the various associations asking for expressions of opinion as to the advisability of making net cord shots illegal, or for alternate proposals in connection with this phase of the game.

American observers were particularly interested in this move because Ellsworth Vines, of California, winner at Wimbledon and in the United States national championships, was termed by British experts as "lucky at net cord shots" in his play during the British tourney.

Red Sox Held To 4 Hits by Weaver

Rookie Turns in 22d Win of Year as Nats Triumph, 4-1.

Rice, Manush Lead Attack on Andrews and Welch.

Special to The Washington Post.

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Sept. 20.—Monte Weaver held the Red Sox to four scattered hits here this afternoon, the result being a 4 to 1 victory for the Nationals and the twenty-second triumph of the season for the young flinger. The Nats both gained and lost as a result of the day's happenings. The second-place Mackmen idled, enabling the Washington Club to gain half a game on them, now trailing by 3½ contests, while a double-win for the Tribe let the Cleveland Club sneak up to within three games of the Capital Cityans.

Weaver had one of his exceptionally good days and but for an error by Outfielder Sam Rice, would have scored a shutout. He fanned five and walked but two, and, except in the seventh round, when the Beaneaters scored their lone run, he did not let an alien pass first base. None of the alien hits netted more than one base.

Nats Treat Both Sox Hurlers Alike.

Marty McManus, Sox leader, called on two youngsters, Ivy Paul Andrews and Johnny Welch, to carry his pitching burden and the Nats managed to knick each one for a cluster of two runs, the first rally starting the game and the second practically ending it.

Rice opened the fracas with a one-baser. He was forced by Myer, but the latter reached second safely when Warstler pegged badly past first trying for a double play. He scored on Manush's double. After Manush stole third and Reynolds walked, this pair put on a double theft, with Heinie scoring on the front end.

Kuhel tripled to center opening the ninth and brought home one of the two runs scored in this frame when a wild pitch followed. Then Bluege strolled and Spencer's sacrifice and Rice's single let him complete the base circle.

Rice's Error Presents Sox Shutout.

Rice's error, which let the Sox break into the scoring in the seventh, was a fumble on Oliver's single, giving the hitter an extra base. He advanced on Alexander's useful out and tallied on Jolley's single. Myer made a great stop on this grounder back of Kuhel, but he was in no position to make a good peg to nip the runner at the doorway.

Rice, with three hits, and Manush, with two, accounted for a majority of the nine credited the Nats, while Oliver cracked out two of the four gleaned from Weaver's slants.

Kansan Begins Vigil For World Series Seat

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—William Cunningham, who describes himself as a former railroad fireman from Kansas City, completed the first day of his wait for the first world series ticket this afternoon. The series opens a week from tomorrow and Cunningham is still the whole line of aspirants for early entrance.

He said his capital consisted of $1.20, but he hopes to raise food money by charging for answers to questions as to why he started waiting so soon. The only answer he has been able to think up so far is that he was nosed out of first place last year.

Yanks Boast Advantage In Ruth

Babe Gives New York Outfield Edge Over Cubs in Series.

(This is the second of a series of stories comparing the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs. Today, the outfields.)

By STUART CAMERON.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (U.P.).—The deeper one goes into comparing the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs, the more firmly one becomes convinced it is Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth who, in the final analysis, provide the real margin of difference between the two teams.

Gehrig's hitting and supreme steadiness gives the Yanks an edge in the infield; Ruth's tremendous slugging and flaming competitive spirit furnish the New Yorkers with a decided advantage in the outfield.

A great player day in and day out, Ruth becomes doubly effective when the stakes are high. Nothing proves this so thoroughly as a glance at the big man's world series record.

Ruth Has Series Average Of .325.

In nine previous series Ruth has come through with 37 hits, for an average of .325. Thirteen of these 37 safeties were home runs. Six of them came in two games. Coming through with a home run in the "clutch" and breaking up the ball game is one of Ruth's specialties.

And as for his fielding, he can still get about plenty. Try and find a manager or player who ever saw the Babe throw to the wrong base.

But even if Ruth's recent illness kept him out of the series and the Yanks were robbed of his big bat and inspirational leadership, they would still hold a shade more power in the outfield.

Ben Chapman, despite his inexperience and unsteadiness, must be granted an edge over Riggs Ol' Hoss" Stephenson, Chicago's dependable left fielder. Chapman is the fastest man afield, and on the bases in either league. He has stolen 37 bases, only 6 less than the entire Chicago team. What is more, he is as good a batter as Stephenson, far and away the most dangerous of the Cub swingers. Batting in seventh position, Chapman has driven in 96 runs to Stephenson's 83. Neither one of the men are brilliant fielders. Chapman is weak on ground balls, and Stephenson slow afoot.

Combs Holds Big Edge In Center.

It's no contest in center field, where the Yankees have Earl Combs, and the Cubs depend on Johnny Moore and Frank Demaree, according to whether the pitching is right-handed or portside. Combs ranks with the greatest ball hawks of all time, and is a brilliant lead off man. What is more, he can hit that ball, as his average of .321 would show.

In Kiki Cuyler, the Cubs have one of the finest outfielders in the majors. Handicapped early in the season by a broken bone in his foot, the fleet-footed Kiki has been a ball of fire in the late stages of the season. In shape, Cuyler can do everything and do it well—field, hit and run the bases.

In case Ruth is kept out of the series with an ailing stomach, he will be replaced by Sammy Byrd. Defensively, Byrd is without a flaw, being exceptionally fast and a fine judge of balls. His hitting, however, is something else again. When he's hot, it's home runs and triples all over the place. When he's cool, it's three strikes and sit down.

The other rival outfielders—Myrll Hoag and Marvin Gudat—are standoffs, neither being anything to wire Aunt Lucy about.

World Series Sales Only Moderate in N. Y.

New York, Sept. 20 (U.P.).—Ticket sale for world series games to be played in New York has progressed with only moderate speed, the United Press was informed today.

"There are plenty of available reserved seat tickets as well as for seats in the mezzanine and upper boxes," Edward G. Barrow, secretary of the New York Yankees, said.

Gains Sweet Revenge on Club That Traded Him "Down River."

Bush Halts Pirates; Grimm in Tears After Victory.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—One sweep of Kiki Cuyler's lusty war club clinched the National League pennant for Chicago's rushing Cubs today and made his old Pittsburgh mates also rans.

At bat in the seventh inning of a torrid duel, with the bases loaded and one out, Kiki erased what little remained of the championship hopes of the club that once "sold him down the river," by smashing out a long triple, to supply the winning margin of 5 to 2. The blow, crashing off one of Steve Swetonic's slants, tumbled the Pirates out of the championship race definitely.

40,000 See "Revenge Act" Of Cuyler.

Cuyler's "revenge act' was as dramatic to a roaring capacity crowd of 40,000 as it was timely. The score was tied at 2-all when the big Cub seventh opened with a single by Bill Jurges.

Guy Bush, tamer of the Buccaneers over the route with eight hits, laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt and was safe as Gus Suhr pegged wildly to catch Jurges at second. Billy Herman advanced both runners with another perfect bunt and the Pirates called a huddle.

It was decided to walk English to load the bases, and make the opportunity for a play at any base. Swetonic put everything behind his every pitch and the setting stood at three balls and two strikes. With a mighty heave, Swetonic fired. Cuyler met it squarely, and the ball sizzled on a line right over third base to the extreme left corner of left field. The blow cleared the bases and it was all over, with Bush holding the Buc's to a harmless single by Traynor in the eighth with one out.

It was a dazed and happy crowd of Cubs that frolicked about the clubhouse with the prized pennant and a world series chance against the New York Yankees in their pockets. Billy Herman won the race to the clubhouse, but nothing much was said until Manager Grimm poked his head through the door. He was pounced on immediately by his happy mates.

"Glad That Job's Over," Said Grimm.

"Great, great, great, boys," he choked with tears in his eyes. That's all he could say.

President William Veeck joined the crowd, shook hands with each player and then turned to Grimm: "Thanks, manager. But we knew we could do it."

Not a word was mentioned about the world series or the Yankees. Grimm dismissed most of his tired regulars for the second game of the double-header and there was a big rush toward the ice cream stand.

"I'm glad that job's over," Grimm reflected as he took his shower. "We've played pretty hard and can stand some rest."

HER GRACE, ODDS-ON, REWARDS BACKERS IN HAVRE FEATURE

Seven Veils Sets Pace, Is Third

Workman Scores on Favorite; Laughing Queen Second.

Absolute, 13-1, Beats Stealing Away in Day's Opener.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 20.—Her Grace, Ral Parr's star mare, coasted home to win the Melody, outstanding attraction on the second charity day program at this course, which drew another crowd in the neighborhood of 10,000. For the second day, favorite players had to wait for the feature to cash a win bet—Her Grace—going to the post at even money and paid $3.50 in the mutuels.

Two Washingtonians had a hand in the victory. Sonny Workman gave the daughter of Bright Knight a rousing ride, while Elmer Trueman, the trainer, sent her to the post in perfect shape after being away from competition since last spring.

Seven Veils Leads to Club-House Turn.

Seven Veils, half of the Hertz entry, led the field to the clubhouse turn, with Her Grace close up. This pair stayed in the same position to the stretch turn, where Workman brought Her Grace to the front to draw away. Seven Veils was forced to fight a losing place battle with Laughing Queen, which finished fast after being taken back at the start. Her Grace had a length advantage at the finish.

Absolute, the property of Mrs. George D. Widener, left the maiden ranks in the opener, winning in a drive from Stealingaway, made the favorite in the final betting, and Indian Boy, Axentea, a hot paddock tip, led the field from the break until three-sixteenths out, where he gave up the battle. The winner paid better than 16 to 1.

Grand Prince, consistent plater, now stabled in the Shandon Farm barn, defeated the veteran Spinach in the second race, with Silverdale third. Spinach, Royal Past and Judge Primrose did the bulk of the early front running, with Silverdale and Grand Prince heading the second division. Spinach had the lead at the stretch turn, but went wide, and Grand Prince came through on the inside to gain the lead.

Bejshak and Filter Winning Combination.

Johnny Bejshak and Filter proved the superior combination in the third race, beating Sonny Workman and Hell Diver, the latter the odds-on favorite. Arrowswift took the show. As the race was run, Filter was much the best, overcoming interference at the start, which found him far back, to wade through the field on the back stretch and catch the flying Hell Diver at the stretch turn and win going away. The start was delayed ten minutes with Singing Heart the chief offender.

Mad Pursuit, which could hardly get out of his own way in the West, ran a sparkling race to take the favored Semaphore in the Perryville, for 3-year-old candidates for The Potomac, one of the $20,000 stakes. Third money went to Madwind. Semaphore led until the far turn to be headed by Mad Pursuit. The two battled neck and neck up the stretch, but Mad Pursuit drew away at the end.

Well Played took the sixth, coming up on the outside to outstay Westy's Fox. Unencumbered was third. The latter was blocked several times and looked like the best of the lot.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GRAND PRINCE, $10.30, $5.60, $3.30; SPINACH, $9.60, $6.20; SILVERDALE, $3.80.

GRAND PRINCE, quick to begin and kept in near attendance of the leaders, moved up stoutly to displace SPINACH when settled into the home stretch, and came away slowly under strong pressure. SPINACH, hurried into a brief lead, was saved as long as possible and continued courageously when challenged. SILVERDALE, taken to the outside when reaching the home stretch, could not make up any ground on the first two. JOLLY PILOT, ridden hard on the inside, finished gamely. MARGARET MC showed a good test. JUDGE PRIMROSE weakened after a half mile. MISS CORINNE went wide all the way.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FILTER, $29.30, $7.50, $7.10; HELL DIVER, $2.80, $2.40; ARROWSWIFT, $5.30.

FILTER secured room on the inside after the start to move into a contending position, came around HELL DIVER when straightened for the stretch run, and came away smartly. HELL DIVER, urged hard to shake off early opposition, saved ground, but was unable to withstand the winner. ARROWSWIFT, finding racing room on the outside, finished stoutly. TABAKU could not get to the leaders, lacking pace, but faltered during the final issue. SISKO could not reach a contending position. SINGING HEART broke from the outside after acting fractious. HALF SAINT stopped.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAD PURSUIT, $15.50, $5.30, $3.00; SEMAPHORE, $2.80, $2.20; MAD WIND, $2.60.

MAD PURSUIT, kept in close attendance of SEMAPHORE, moved into a brief lead when reaching the final furlong pole, and drew out slowly under strong pressure. SEMAPHORE took command at his leisure, displayed good speed while under rein and straight. was victorious handily when challenged. MAD WIND dwelt slightly with the start, moved into a contending position and appeared to sulk when whipped. He outstayed LADFIELD during the final drive. LADFIELD made repeated efforts under punishment, but hung during the closing furlong. LADINO finished with good courage.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HER GRACE, $3.50, $3.50, $2.20; LAUGHING QUEEN, $70, $2.80; SEVEN VEILS (Mrs. J. D. Hertz entry), $2.10.

Workman took HER GRACE under restraint going to the first turn to allow for a pacemaker, waited with HER GRACE until approaching the home stretch and, moving to the outside, drew into the lead and had speed to draw away at the end. LAUGHING QUEEN, following well placed, responded strongly to punishment and made up ground gamely. SEVEN VEILS rushed to the front when reaching the back stretch, had good speed and held on well after setting the pace. VALENCIENNES, sluggish early, bung after moving up stronnly midway of the far turn. MARCASITE showed a good test. RICKS was through early.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:10. Off at 5:15½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WELL PLAYED, $6.80, $3.90, $2.40; WESTY'S FOX, $8.30, $4.60; UNENCUMBERED, $3.20.

WELL PLAYED, well handled and allowed to reach his best stride in the first five furlongs, circled the leaders when reaching the home stretch and, finishing gamely, wore WESTY'S FOX down in the closing furlong. WESTY'S FOX, reserved off the pace was rushed to the front when leaving the back stretch and fought it out smartly at the end. UNENCUMBERED, eased back with the break, was blocked repeatedly on the back stretch, and was taken off his stride several times during the stretch run. He appeared best. ANNA V. L. moved up boldly, but was not good enough. TULACH ARD had early speed, as did MAJOR GENERAL. Both appeared to be in need of racing.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 5:45. Off at 5:46. Winner, S. A. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLYING MAX, $23.10, $10.10, $6.10; OUR PAL, $4.70, $3.20; KINGBIRD, $3.80.

FLYING MAX outran his field to the first turn and was forced to accept the lead under sufferance, opened up a winning lead, but had to be shaken up in the final furlong to withstand OUR PAL. Latter, slow to get going, worked his way up on the outside and finished in determined fashion. KINGBIRD, prominent early, continued stoutly when the final test came. GLEN BURNIE could not threaten the pacemakers after reaching a forward position. SKIRT made up ground in the late stages. SHAN TUNG was never a factor. GOLDEN ROCK had brief early speed.

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, SEPT. 20.

Danny Smith joined the ranks of the grounded jockeys today after he won with the long shot, Absolute, in the first race. The stewards gave him the meeting for rough riding. Faireno is assigned top weight of 126 pounds for the Potomac ($20,000 added), the first of the big stakes here. Burning Blaze gets 122 and Top Flight 118. Polo Bar, Ladino, English Knight and Laughing Queen are the lightweights with 96 pounds.

I have nothing whatever to say regarding my selections for today. BILL.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE GARBLE SISTERS DISCUSS THE WORLD SERIES.

"ARE you gonna see the world series this year?

"I don't think so. I don't like the trip to Philadelphia."

Philadelphia ain't in the series this year."

"I thought they always played the world series in Philadelphia."

"It only seems that way."

"Where do they play it this year?"

"It's between John McGraw's Yankees and the St. Louis Cubs, of Chicago. They play some games in New York and some in Cincinnati."

* * * *

"It's too bad about Ouimet."

"What's happened?"

"He won't be able to play with the Yanks on account of stomach trouble."

"Well, the Yanks should worry, they still got Vines, Allison and Van Rhyn."

"I know, but look at those Cub pitchers."

"What pitchers?"

"Chick Evans and Everett Sanders."

"They're good, but the Yanks have got Jouett Shouse and Jess Guilford."

"When do they play the opening game?"

"I think the paper said November 8."

"Who's gonna throw out the first ball, now that Jimmy Walker has been traded to Italy?"

"I think it's a feller named Jim Farley."

"I like those two brothers on the Chicago Team. You know the ones I mean."

"The Flying Hutchinsons?"

"Yeah. Wherever they go they take their children with 'em. Who do you like in the series, anyhow?"

"I like the Yanks on paper, but I don't like that bad omen."

"What bad omen?"

"They lost in Maine and as Maine goes so does the National League."

* * * *

"Who's managing the Yanks this year, Owen Young or Joe McKee?"

"It's a feller named Terry, ain't it?"

"No, Terry manages Brooklyn. I think the manager of the Yanks is a feller named Maurice McCarthy, a golfer."

"Who's running the Chicago team this time?"

"It used to be Al Capone, but they fired him for betting on the horse races."

KEEPING THE RECORD STRAIGHT.

"As you read this, Gorguloff, if he knows anything, knows things that he did not know on earth. He knows that what happens on this half-developed little grain of said, called earth, recently abandoned by him, makes little difference in the cosmic scheme."—Arthur Brisbane, on the recent guillotine victim.

Abandoned, did you say, Mr. Brisbane? They pulled a knife on him.

THE OLD LURE.

It seems that, despite his threat to starve to death, Mahatma Gandhi has a new set of false teeth. There is always a chance he may be tempted by home cooking, presumably.

P. K. L. says that Mahatma was impelled to lay off food by a tourist's remark, "Why, Mr. Gandhi, you've put on an ounce since I was here last year."

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

GOV. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT will make his third radio campaign speech within one week when he addresses a coast-to-coast audience from Portland, Oreg., tonight (WMAL, 10 o'clock).

Booth Tarkington will offer the first of a series of original radio sketches, written especially for the microphone by him.

The Tarkington series, entitled "Maud and Cousin Bill," deals with incidents in the lives of a typical American boy and girl, and will be presented by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. each Wednesday and Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock during their "Our Daily Food" program over the WJZ network, beginning this morning.

ALFRED E. SMITH, editor, will discuss the craft in an address during Bill Schudt's "Going to Press" program today (WMAL, 4 p. m.).

The new magazine chief will speak at an hour when he usually begins his daily editorial stint. He reaches for his pencil and eyeshade about 5:30 p. m. Editor Smith gets his editorial inspiration at night, it is said.

Both networks will broadcast the world's series beginning Wednesday, September 28.

Ralph De Palma, famous racing driver, who recently broke three world's speed records at Lake Muroc, Calif., will describe some of his thrilling experiences tonight (Mobiloil, WRC—8:30).

EDWIN C. HILL wouldn't consider going on the air without having a glass of water beside the microphone. Yet, according to Announcer Louis Dean, Hill never once has interrupted his talks long enough to quench his thirst.

Which reminds this writer that Sol Smith Russell, the famous actor, always had a plate of doughnuts on his dressing room table.

"My wife sends them to me fresh three times a week," Russell explained to a friend. "I never eat the doughnuts, but seeing them prevents me from getting hungry."

John Buchan, M. P., noted Scottish author and historian, will commemorate the centenary of the birth of Sir Walter Scott in an address from London this afternoon (WMAL—3:10 o'clock).

Peggy Fears, former Ziegfeld "Follies" star and now a theatrical producer, will be interviewed over the microphone by Catherine Mackenzie this morning (WMAL—9:15 o'clock).

Miss Fears, whose first production venture was last season's "Child of Manhattan," will tell about her schedule this year which includes the play, "Nona," now in rehearsal, with Lenore Ulric as star; a song play, "Music in the Air," by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein 2d, and "Saint Wench," with Helen Menken.

AN announcement has just been received of the marriage of Stanley E. Hubbard, of Station KSTP, at St. Paul, Thursday, September 15. The bride was Miss Didrikke Stub, the daughter of Mr. Jacob Hal Ottesen Stub, and the wedding took place in Minneapolis.

The Mills Brothers will broadcast two extra programs on WMAL the week of October 7. They will make their first local appearance at the Howard Theater.

BOND GEDDES, former Washington correspondent, has been promoted to general manager of the Radio Manufacturers Association, with headquarters in Chicago. He is also secretary of the association.

'Navy Bill' Ingram Mails Forfeit for Speeding

Oakland, Calif., Sept. 20 (A.P.).—A bench warrant for the arrest of "Navy Bill" Ingram, football coach at the University of California, on a speeding charge, brought a response today from the mentor, after several notifications to appear had been unfruitful.

Ingram telephoned the clerk in Police Judge E. J. Tyrrell's court that he would mail the court $25 as bail and forfeit that amount as a fine for driving 40 miles an hour in a 20-mile zone. The coach was tagged last July 18. He explained to the clerk that he had been too busy in connection with the opening of the football season to read his mail.

Stocks Move Up Two Points Without Increased Activity

Rails and Farm Implements Lead Rally in Sale of 1,251,040 Shares.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Financial markets were firm in most directions today. Stocks edged a couple of notches higher, canceling their declines of the last three sessions.

Improvement in stocks was unaccompanied by increased activity, although toward the close trading livened somewhat and final prices were the day's best, net changes averaging into a gain of slightly better than two points. Sales totaled 1,251,040 shares.

Rail equities, mail order issues and the farm implements acted best during the earlier hours and their ability to rally finally induced a stronger tone elsewhere. Steel stocks found the going much easier, U. S. Steel preferred advancing about 4 points after yesterday's 7-point break. Doubtless the absence of pressure against this issue had something to do with the general recovery movement. Steel common, together with Bethlehem and Republic, gained moderately, joining Du Pont, American Smelting, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of New Jersey, North American, General Electric, New York Central, Northern Pacific and several other rails in advances of a point or more.

American Telephone succeeded in more than making up the regular dividend that came off the stock. Allied Chemical, Case, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Lackawanna, Southern Pacific, Westinghouse, Peoples Gas and Consolidated Gas were up 2 to 4 net. United Aircraft, helped by news of a $1,500,000 order, soared 4½. Missouri-Kansas-Texas reached a new high for the year.

The day's news, on balance, appeared to have created a favorable impression in speculative quarters. Railroads, especially those in the grain country, are getting the benefit of seasonal traffic expansion, while the steel industry comes to midweek with indications that production is running about even with a week ago, perhaps slightly higher.

On technical grounds, the market probably felt that further efforts for better prices had been warranted by dullness of trading on the recent reaction.

Number of advances	270	135
Number of declines	159	297
Total unchanged	145	148
Issues traded	574	580

Stocks.

Prices moved up two points without increased activity. Rails, mail order and farm implement issues led the rally. The turnover was 1,251,040 shares.

Bonds.

Federal loans gave a firmer tone to the market. Trading was quiet, and prices on selected list of 60 issues closed unchanged. Sales reached $9,256,000.

Curb.

The market vacillated until near the close, when a brisk rally sent prices higher. The volume of trading was 170,000 shares.

Wheat.

Liverpool's firmer quotations on wheat cheered Chicago and prices gained. Greece paid higher for grain, which was reflected in the upturn. Wheat for September sold at 50 cents.

Cotton.

Steadier Liverpool cables added slight gains to cotton prices. Southern selling was absorbed. December closed at 6.93; October, at 6.77. The general market was up 4 to 7 points.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—After an irregular forenoon session wherein sellers predominated the sentiment changed and repurchases caused a general recovery from the lowest. Transatlantic issues and gold mining shares were especially firm in the late trading and the closing tone was steadier.

Paris—Prices on the bourse were heavy, being influenced by the easiness in Wall street. Buying later developed, apparently in response to the good reception of the rente conversion plan and most losses were recovered and the market closed irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse sagged at the opening and remained lower throughout the day. The closing was weak.

THE METAL MARKETS.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—COPPER—Quiet; electrolytic, spot and future, 6¼.

BONDS UNCHANGED IN QUIETER TRADING

Federal Issues Are Firm as Market Leaders; Sales, $9,256,000.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The firmness of United States Government loans today gave a somewhat brighter tinge to the bond market, although corporate issues continued to move uncertainly.

Outside of the Federal list, trading was extremely quiet, sales totaling only $9,256,000, par value. The average for 60 corporate securities held to its closing level of yesterday.

There was a rather heavy turnover in the Government section, new highs for the year being recorded by Liberty first and fourth 4¼s and Treasury 3¾s, 4s and 4¼s.

While the "gilt-edge" Governments moved up fractionally to new 1932 levels, utility, railroad and industrial loans drifted about with little indication of any definite trend. Some of the speculative carriers rallied a point or more, but other transportation issues declined. A few of the utilities and industrials improved substantially while others were moderately heavy.

Among rail bonds that held portions of their recoveries were some of Allegheny Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern and Union Pacific.

Communications company issues stood out in the utility department, International Telephone advanced from 1 to 5 points and loans of American Telephone showed the best gains in several weeks.

The foreign section was fairly firm, the best gains being recorded by the Argentines.

Bondholder Asks Receiver For Waldorf-Astoria Hotel

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Appointment of a receiver for the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel was asked in a motion filed in supreme court today by Bernard Breslauer, a mortgage bond holder, alleging that the hotel and its furnishings are liable to be seized by the New York State Realty Co. for nonpayment of rent.

Breslauer initiated the action in behalf of himself and any other bondholders who may wish to protect their holdings in an $11,000,000 bond issue.

He contended the bondholders' interests will be foreclosed if the realty company decided to take over the hotel, and charged that the management had defaulted in various rent payments in the past year as well as failing to pay interest on bonds which fell due September 1.

The Waldorf-Astoria holds a lease from the realty company for 28 years and 11 months from January 1, 1930.

Mr. Breslauer, holder of two bonds having an aggregate face value of $2,000, asked that a receiver be appointed for all the assets of the hostelry, or for certain property put by to secure the first mortgage leasehold 7 per cent sinking fund gold bonds. The motion will be argued next Monday.

Freight Loadings Of M., K. & T. Gain

170 Cars Per Day Are Added to Average of 1931.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Freight loadings of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad are showing "a decided upward tendency," notwithstanding recent reactions in cotton and wheat prices, M. H. Cahill, chairman of the road, said today.

"Loadings and receipts at connections to date this month," he asserted, "averaged 1,242 cars daily, an improvement of 170 cars over the daily average to date of last month, but 180 cars below the same period a year ago.

"If September loadings continue at the present rate of increase the daily average will be the highest since last November, a definite sign that the downward tendency has been checked."

U. S. Steel Appoints New Traffic Manager

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The United States Steel Corporation today announced the appointment of John A. Coakley as central traffic manager of eight subsidiary companies, the American Bridge, American Sheet & Tin Plate, American Steel & Wire, Carnegie Steel, H. C. Frick Coke, Illinois Steel, Lorain Steel and National Tube Companies.

Mr. Coakley, whose headquarters will be in Pittsburgh, will take up his new duties on October 1. He has been a vice president of the American Steel & Wire Co.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Buying activity in the primary floor-covering market is reported slightly more active. In some quarters of the market sellers report a moderate though spotty pick-up on carpet business.

CURB PRICES HIGHER IN RALLY AT CLOSE

Utilities Lead in Upturn as Trading Holds at 170,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—The Curb Market vacillated during most of today's session, but toward the close a fairly brisk rally developed in public utility stocks. Transactions again approximated 170,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

Electric Bond & Share, after fluctuating narrowly around its previous closing price, stepped up 3 points to 27⅝. American Gas & Electric, Commonwealth Edison and a sprinkling of preferred stocks gained 1 to around 4 points. Cities Service common added a fraction to its price and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore was a shade higher.

The improvement in wheat prices helped Deere which gained 1 point to 12. Newmont Mining was up ⅝ points. Oils were steady, with Standard of Indiana and Gulf making small gains. Aluminum Co. rose more than 3.

Stutz Motor broke over several points and Quaker Oats, on an odd-lot sale, dipped 7.

Match Creditors Told To File Claims at Once

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Holders of debentures of the International Match Corporation or other creditors of the bankrupt Kreuger Holding Co. must file proof of claims before October 19, to insure participation in dividends, which it is believed will be "considerable," Oscar W. Ehrhorn, referee in bankruptcy, announced today at a hearing.

The referee said a large number of holders of International Match bonds were unaware that they must file either proofs of claim with the referee or deposit their bonds with one of the protective bondholders committees if they wished to obtain protection.

Oil Companies in Cuban Field Seek No Monopoly

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Leading oil companies with Cuban interests today indicated that they were not seeking the oil marketing monopoly which, under the Cuban Senate bill, would be exchanged for a sum of money sufficient to pay the entire Cuban debt.

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, Consolidated Oil and Royal Dutch Shell are the principal distributors of petroleum products in Cuba. The Cuban debt, external and internal, is estimated at approximately $200,000,000.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN ON BUYING REPORTS

Liverpool Dealing Cheers Chicago; Greece Pays Higher Prices.

Chicago, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Broadening of the difference between Chicago and Liverpool wheat quotations gave cheer to grain traders today, and imparted firmness to the entire list of cereals.

Adding to upward momentum of values was word that Greece had bought a cargo of United States hard winter wheat at the Gulf of Mexico, paying 5¼ cents over Chicago December, compared with 3½ cents premium a week ago. Mill buying of wheat in Chicago, together with signs of Eastern demand for cash wheat here, were also heartening factors.

Wheat closed firm at nearly the day's top, ¼ to ⅞ above yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ¼ to ⅜ higher; oats, a shade to ¼ up, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

Attitude of Traders.

Traders friendly to market upturns emphasized that prices were extraordinarily low, and that Liverpool's complete refusal today to follow declines yesterday on this side of the Atlantic was significant. Notice was likewise taken of Liverpool dispatches saying it was generally expected that buying of Canadian wheat would be heavy in Great Britain, meanwhile domestic primary arrivals of wheat were much smaller than a year ago, with winter wheat receipts extremely scant.

On the other hand, better weather was the rule in Canada and country marketing there continued heavy, 6,242,000 bushels reported today, against 1,363,000 a year ago. An increase of 22,384,000 bushels in world's available stocks this week was announced mainly as a result of the Canadian movement. Export takings of North American wheat today totaled 850,000 bushels, chiefly from Canada.

Corn and oats advanced higher owing partly to rains likely to hamper corn movement.

Provisions were responsive to downturns of hog values.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Bradstreet's Weekly reports that business failures in the week ended September 15 increased to 469 from 384 in the previous week, a rise of 22.1 per cent. This interruption in the recent downward trend of insolvencies, however, is "not surprising," the publication said, "considering the abruptness of the recent decline in number" and "merely indicates that general business conditions have not improved enough to warrant such a swift clearing up of the high failures situation, and that a more gradual change is more productive of permanent results."

Francis F. Randolph, of J. & W. Seligman Co., investing banking firm, was elected to the directorate of Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad today. He succeeds Eugene W. Stetson, resigned.

A Youngstown dispatch to Dow, Jones & Co. today said that orders received by Republic Steel Corporation thus far in September have been larger in volume than in August. "Expectations that October volume will exceed the current month's seem justified by current developments," it added.

Consolidated Oil Corporation announced today that its marketing subsidiary, Sinclair Refining Co., had awarded contracts for approximately 1,500 tons of fabricated steel for its refinery improvement program. The company is recalling 150 former employes at Kansas City for construction work and expects to increase this number to 250 or 300.

CAPITAL'S BUILDING TAKES FIFTH PLACE

New York Heads 25 Cities in Private Construction; One State Gains.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Washington moved from ninth to fifth place in a list of 25 cities reporting the largest volume of private building permits for August compiled by S. W. Straus & Co. Valuation of the local total was $1,017,740. New York, as usual, headed the group, with building having a total value of $4,576,260 and the cities ahead of Washington were Baltimore, Philadelphia and San Francisco, all in the one million dollar classification.

Building permits in 565 cities and towns reporting to the Straus company amounted to $32,921,292 in August, which total represented a half per cent increase over that for July, a normal seasonal increase, but a 70.2 per cent decline from that of August, 1931. Baltimore, Wichita, Kans.; Sioux City, Ia.; Albany, N. Y.; Wilmington, Del.; Terre Haute, Ind.; Macon, Ga., and Allentown, Pa., made individual gains over August, 1931.

The District of Columbia also ascended from twenty-fourth ninth in a list of States compiled by Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau of Hartford, Conn., dealing with life insurance sales. Local sales for August were 19 per cent behind those of the month last year.

Rhode Island Gains.

All States but Rhode Island showed comparative losses, the exception exhibiting a 1 per cent gain. The country as a whole was 17 per cent behind August a year ago. Local sales during the month totaled $3,473,000 and half of the companies doing business here and included in the survey reported business gains during the month.

Receivers for the Departmental Bank announced yesterday that beginning Friday the establishment will be open to allow depositors to file proof of their claims to deposits. A three-month period has been allotted for this.

Friday and Saturday the bank will be open from 8:30 a. m. until 9 p. m. Beginning Monday it will be open during regular business hours.

Luncheons to Start.

The District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association will open its 1932-33 season of luncheon meetings tomorrow afternoon at 12:15 o'clock at the Washington Hotel. Friend L. Wells, Baltimore general agent for Aetna Life Insurance Co., will be the guest speaker. Past President David S. Bethune will report on his work as a committeeman for the national association. The Batimore-Washington Sales Congress will be held here in January instead of May.

The next meeting of banking and industrial committee, Fifth Federal Reserve District, will convene in the board room of Riggs National Bank, September 28, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Agents of the local office of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. of New Jersey will hold a dinner at Hay-Adams House beginning at 6 o'clock on the evening of October 4. E. E. Rhodes, Newark, N. J., vice president of the company, will be the speaker.

Spot Sugar Prices Fall On Competition Fears

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Continued inactivity in the spot market, weakness abroad and fears of increased competition from foreign whites in the refined market all contributed to further declines in the sugar market today.

December contracts after opening at 1.05, declined to 1.03 while July sold off from 1.10 to 1.07 under liquidation and selling by producing interests. The general market at 2 o'clock was within a point of these levels and from 2 to 4 points below the previous close.

TEXTILE TRADE RISE NOTED SINCE AUGUST

Number of Spindles in Use Listed as 22,896,024; Capacity Increased.

(Associated Press.)

Increased consumption of textiles since midsummer was met by greater activity of cotton mills last month as compared with July.

Based on activity of 8.96 hours per day, the average number of spindles operated during August was reported yesterday by the Census Bureau as 22,896,024, or 72.4 per cent of capacity on a single shift basis.

This compared with 51.5 per cent for July, and 57.6 for June, the two lowest months since July, 1924, when the percentage was 60.03. The August ratio showed a drop, however, from the 81.6 percentage of the corresponding month last year.

The increased activity of spindles was almost identical with the increased consumption of cotton during August.

The department's report showed 31,643,898 spinning spindles were in place at the end of August, of which 22,022,490 were operated at some time during the month, compared with 19,758,252 in July and 25,630,136 in August, 1931. The aggregate number of active spindle hours reported for the month was 5,539,006,107.

During August the normal times of operation was 27 days, as compared with 25 days for July, the average hours per spindle in place being 175.

The cotton-growing States reported 4,502,973,915 active spindle hours during the month, the New England States 916,539,208, and all other States 119,492,984.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON LIVERPOOL GAINS

General Market Advances 4 to 7 Points; October Sells at 6.77.

New York, Sept. 20 (A.P.).—Cotton closed slightly higher today after an irregular session.

An opening advance of 12 to 16 points on steadier Liverpool cables and reports of heavy rains in the Central belt was followed by reactions, but there was no aggressive pressure and after selling off from 7.03 to 6.85, December closed at 6.93. The general market closed steady at net advances of 4 to 7 points.

The early bulge met some Southern selling and realizing which eased prices off after the early demand had been supplied. Failure of the detailed weather reports to bring in a more general demand was doubtless a disappointment to some of the early buyers.

Little Southern Selling.

There was very little Southern selling after the first half hour, but prices weakened during the early afternoon, with October easling off to 6.77 and March to 7.04, or back to about yesterday's closing quotations. The absence of hedging, however, brought in some covering toward the close, and last prices showed rallies of 3 to 5 points from the lowest.

While the weather reports showed general rains over the Central belt ranging up to a maximum of a little over 5 inches at one station in the Vicksburg district, the storm seemed to have been less violent than apprehended in some quarters, and reports of another tropical disturbance approaching the Leeward Islands did not appear to have much effect on the market.

There was considerable switching from October to late deliveries, presumably in preparation for possible notices next week.

Liverpool cables reported buying on the weather news and said there was an improved business in cotton goods from South America with more mills restarting. Exports today, 34,685, making 889,772 so far this season. Port receipts, 47,587. U. S. port stocks, 3,435,524.

Don Dwiddle skirted Washington and Lee's left end for 25 yards and Episcopal's only touchdown of the game shortly after the start of the second period.

Frank Good intercepted an enemy pass and ran 30 yards for the second six-pointer for the eventual winners.

Another lengthy run was made by Odie Bunch, of the Generals, who intercepted a pass on his own 3-yard line and ran 75 yards before being pulled down from behind by Swift.

GRID OPENER TODAY FOR CENTRAL

Training School Will Be Met; Coggins to Use 25 Players.

CENTRAL swings into action for its first game of the season this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, meeting Ed Crandall's powerful National Training School eleven on the latter's field.

It will be the Training School squad's second skirmish. It turned back Emerson by a decisive 28-0 margin in the season's inaugural last Saturday. Against Central today the Bladensburg road aggregation will encounter a much stronger team, one that looms as a real contender for the high school title.

Bert Coggins, Central mentor, will take a squad of 25 players to the game and plans to use all.

Gibbons Does Fancy Booting.

"I'm going to stick 'em in there and see if I haven't got some good football players in the bunch," he said yesterday.

Coggins has uncovered a long-distance kicker in Hank Gibbons, captain and tackle. Hank was getting off punts that averaged 45 yards yesterday and may drop back from the line to do the kicking in games.

Marty Fisher, a husky, agile youngster, is holding down the other tackle. "Hey Hey" Hay, center, and Nick Pistolas, guard, are others helping Coggins solve the vexatious line problem.

Koscis, Dunlop and King are far ahead of the field aspiring to positions in the back field. Koscis looks particularly good at this stage, but his actual value to the team, of course, will not be determined until the season is under way.

Central plays its second game Saturday, opposing Academy High School at Erie, Pa.

DAVIS WOULD ALTER POLICE HANDLING OF CHILD DELINQUENTS

Inspector Suggests Study of Home Conditions Precede Any Charges.

With thousands of children returning to the public schools, and a few among them playing "hookey," Inspector Ogden T. Davis, chief of the Crime Prevention Bureau, yesterday submitted a detailed report of new methods to handle child delinquency.

The high percentage of criminals recruited from the ranks of delinquent children demands special attention, he said yesterday. Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, who received the report, concurred with its general suggestions. He stated that a close cooperation of police, the Woman's Bureau, the courts and the home, was an ideal combination to curb criminal tendencies in minors.

Study of Home Conditions.

The outstanding suggestion in the report, according to Davis, is a plan by which children would not be charged or placed in custody until a study had been made of home conditions. A police charge, he stated, placed a blot on the reputation of the delinquent, and stamped him as a social failure. The source of delinquency is often a trivial misunderstanding that can easily be remedied.

A special chart of each case will be kept, if the report is accepted. The chart will contain such information as the child's progress throughout his school career; the physical condition, including condition of teeth; the intelligence quotient of the child; spare time habits; home behavior; if employed, the history of employment and what treatment has been given the child.

Antagonism to Be Avoided.

Strict supervision is planned but men assigned to delinquency cases are to be cautioned not to antagonize the children against police or any social agencies. The most important phases of the work will be carried on in cooperation with boys' and girls' clubs.

Gen. Glassford said yesterday that Lieut. Rhoda Milliken, head of the Women's Bureau, would be asked to study Inspector Davis' report and suggest how the two agencies working together could obtain the best results.

PRESIDENT HONORS STEPHAN

Harris & Ewing.

Honored after 45 years' continuous service in the National Guard, Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan was yesterday received by President Hoover at the White House, where he was presented with a gold medal by the Chief Executive. Gen. Stephan enlisted in the District of Columbia National Guard as a young man. In the photo, left to right, are Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, President Hoover, Gen. Stephan and Col. Frederick Payne, Assistant Secretary of War.

$250,000 QUANTICO PROJECT TO START

Number of Other Works in Nearby Area Included in Navy Program.

An allotment of $250,000 for improvements at the Quantico Marine Barracks is included in the $10,000,000 public works program of the Navy Department, announced yesterday by Secretary Adams.

Bachelor officers' quarters at the Quantico marine station will be completed at a cost of $180,000; $45,000 will be spent for improving the flying field, and $25,000 for water distributing systems.

An allotment of $150,000 for work on the naval ammunition depot at St. Juliens Creek, Va., was also announced in the program. Of this amount, $40,000 will be spent for an explosive loading plant; $20,000 for extension of wharf, and $90,000 for underground wiring.

The department will spend $20,000 in improvements at the Santee Wharf, Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., while at the navy yard, Norfolk, Va., $50,000 will be spent for improving distributing systems, $215,000 for extension of the foundry, and $375,000 for improvement of dry dock No. 2.

Fleet landings will be built at the naval operating base, Hampton Roads, Va., at a cost of $40,000.

Construction and improvement projects at practically all major naval stations and bases are included in the program announced by Secretary Adams. The work will be supervised by the Bureau of Yards and Docks. Funds have been released by the Treasury Department to begin work, Secretary Adams said, with the approval of the President.

Under the terms of the emergency relief and construction act of 1932, the District of Columbia is specifically exempted from its provisions. This means that construction of a new navy hospital here will have to await further appropriations.

Victim of a hit-and-run driver, Erwin West, 23, of 3827 Thirteenth street northwest, was injured last night when knocked down by an automobile near Thirteenth street and Delafield place northwest.

West told police he was left lying semiconscious in the street. He managed to crawl to the curb, he said, where passers-by summoned aid.

The youth was taken to Walter Reed Hospital and treated for severe lacerations and bruises to his head and body. West said the machine which hit him bore Maryland license plates and was traveling at a high rate of speed.

HOOVER DECORATES MAJ. GEN. STEPHAN

Fellow Officers Also Present Sword to Leader in National Guard.

Lauded as a soldier, Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commander of the Twenty-ninth Division National Guard, last night was presented with a sword by fellow officers, only a few hours after President Hoover had pinned upon his breast a medal emblematic of 45 years militia service.

The sword was given to Gen. Stephan at a dinner at the Mayflower Hotel, sponsored by the officers of the District of Columbia staff, 121st Engineers, and the 260th Coast Artillery, of the militia, who also tendered the sword.

Gen. Stephan, who saw service in the World War and on the Mexican border, was decorated on the White House lawn. Secretary of War Hurley and many others high in military circles were present.

Gen. Stephan was praised at the banquet by Assistant Secretary of War Frederick H. Payne, Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, retired, District Commissioner; Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding officer, Third Corps Area, and other high-ranking army officers.

Overdue taxes on the estate of the late Mrs. Mary E. Henderson, society leader and widow of Senator John B. Henderson, of Missouri, will be paid by a loan, it was learned in the District Supreme Court yesterday when Harry L. Rust and Ralph B. Fleharty, collectors of the estate, secured permission to negotiate a $40,000 loan from the National Metropolitan Bank.

The loan will be secured by a note for $147,000 made by Casmir Prince Lubonirski, and secured on the home at 2640 Sixteenth street northwest. It was further explained that there were securities valued at almost $500,000 in the estate, but only a small atmount of cash. A contest over the will of Mrs. Henderson is pending.

Safety Congress Events Will Include Dust Blasts

A series of violent dust explosions at the Government Testing Station at Arlington, Va., will be a feature of the twenty-first annual Safety Congress and Exposition here October 3 to 7, it was learned yesterday.

Dr. David J. Price, chief engineer in charge of the chemical engineering department of the United States Department of Agriculture, will be official host at the "blow-out." He has arranged for the explosions to take place in a miniature factory consisting of a room, connecting gallery and tower with a total volume of 333 cubic feet.

Julien Harvey, representative of the congress, here making arrangements for the exposition, said that he expects attendance of no less than 5,000 delegates from all parts of the country.

ENROLLMENT RISES TO 79,754 IN LOCAL PUBLIC DAY SCHOOLS

Ban Lifted on New Students at Roosevelt High in First Two Classes.

Enrollment in Washington's public day schools yesterday was increased by 3,596 students, bringing the total enrollment up to 79,754. Added to the night school registration, this gives a grand total of 85,917.

The ban which has prevented many students from entering the new Roosevelt High School was lifted yesterday by Dr. Stephen E. Kramer, first assistant superintendent in charge of high schools. Enrollment at this school is 1,437.

New Admission Rule.

Under the new admission rule, all high school children living south of Farragut street and north of Spring road, and between Rock Creek Park on the west and Soldier's Home on the east will be admitted to the first and second year classes.

Prior to this, the school enrolled only those students who were certified for entrance last June, and those who are to pursue business courses. Students living within the territory established yesterday may enroll for standard academic courses in the first and second year. Business students will be admitted from all sections of the city.

Senior High Enrollment.

Third and fourth year academic students are advised by Dr. Kramer not to enroll at Roosevelt High, because these higher years of academic work had not been fully developed at the old Business High School, which Roosevelt succeeds. However, by the time the present first and second year students reach the last two years the academic department at Roosevelt will be ready to take care of them, Dr. Kramer said.

Enrollment at all senior high schools yesterday was 14,142; at junior high, 14,648; at elementary, 49,079; at vocational, 971, and at the teachers' colleges, 914. Central High School leads with an enrollment of 2,740.

COMMISSIONERS LET CONTRACT SOON FOR NEW BENNING SPAN

Design for Calvert Street Bridge Wins Approval; Funds to Be Asked.

The District Commissioners will award a contract in the next few days for construction of the Benning Bridge to replace the present structure. Although $600,000 is available for the project, low building material prices and keen competition among contractors will enable the District government to save almost $250,000 as the seventeen bids range from $350,000 to only $400,000.

The span will be 80 feet wide and 500 feet long and constructed of concrete. It will be built in three sections so as not to block traffic. The contract will call for completion within a year.

The Commissioners yesterday approved a design for the new Calvert Street Bridge, for which an appropriation will be asked of the next Congress. To consist of a single span, somewhat like the Klingle Valley Bridge, the bridge will have a 60-foot roadway and will cost approximately $1,000,000.

For a number of years the present Calvert Street Bridge has constituted a hazard because of its age and inadequacy. Built in 1891 at a cost of $70,000, it has run up a maintenance bill of $111,000 since that time.

A review of the work of the bridge division of the District Highway Department, during the fiscal year 1932 was filed yesterday with the District Commissioners by C. R. Whyte, engineer of bridges. Major construction during the year included the reconstruction of Monroe Street Bridge, the building of a new floor for the New York Avenue Bridge, and the replacement of the Klingle Valley Bridge with a new structure.

Catholic U. Opens With Larger Total

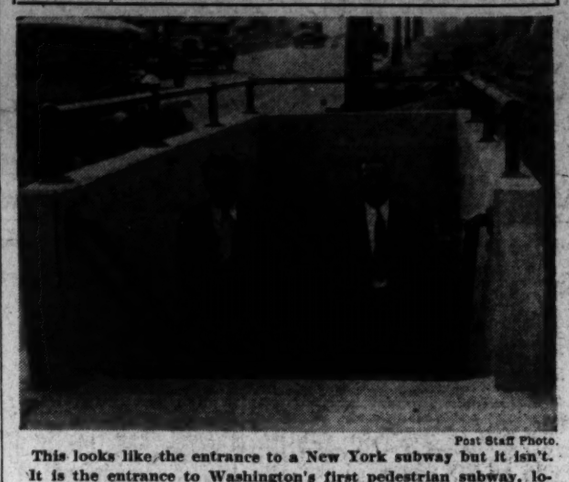
Freshman Class of 140 Is Registered as Forty-fourth Year Starts.

Catholic University opened its forty-fourth academic year yesterday when classes were held in all schools of the university. The enrollment figures in all schools were in excess of those of last year.

The mass of the Holy Ghost, which will mark the solemn opening of the academic year, will be celebrated at 10:30 a. m. Sunday in the Crypt of the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception on the university campus. The Right Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of the university, will be celebrant. The Right Rev. Edward A. Pace, vice rector, will preach.

Of the freshman class, numbering 140 students, 33 registered for the course in engineering, 57 in the course leading to the degree of bachelor of arts, and 50 indicated their intention of studying for the bachelor of science degree. The law class is the largest to enroll. The increase is attributed to the new six-year course of study which permits a student to obtain both the A. B. and LL. B. degrees.

SAFE ROAD TO SCHOOL



Post Staff Photo.

This looks like the entrance to a New York subway but it isn't. It is the entrance to Washington's first pedestrian subway, located on Benning road northeast at Twenty-fourth street. With the widening of Benning road and the erection of an elementary and junior high school on the north side of the road, and the residential section located on the south side, this underpass was deemed necessary for the safety of the children. It was opened for the first time on Monday.

DOAK TALKS TO JOB ASSOCIATION TODAY

To Discuss Employment and Unemployment Problems; Stead Also to Speak.

Secretary of Labor Doak this afternoon will address the twentieth annual convention of the International Association of Public Employment Services which began a four-day session yesterday at the Washington Hotel.

Secretary Doak will discuss "Employment and Unemployment Problems." He will be followed by William H. Stead, executive secretary of the Tri-City Employment Stabilization Committee, of Minneapolis, Minn., who will make a progress report on "Tri-City Employment Demonstrations."

Barney Cohen, director of 24 employment offices maintained by the State of Illinois, yesterday declared that larger and more comprehensive employment services supported by city, State and Federal governments would materially hasten business recovery.

The increased burden to taxpayers represented by broader employment services, Mr. Cohen said, would be more than offset by the benefit to job hunters, who require expert assistance to find proper places in a complex industrial system.

Other speakers yesterday were Richard M. Neustadt, director of the State Employment Commission, Philadelphia, Pa., who spoke on the "Philadelphia Employment Demonstration," and Jess T. Hopkins, manager, Employmeht Center, Rochester, N. Y., who took as his subject, "Report of Progress of the Public Employment Center of Rochester."

FEDERAL EMPLOYES PERFECT PROCEDURE

Plans for Presenting Legislative Needs Adopted by Law Committee.

The legislative committee of the District Department of the American Federation of Government Employes last night adopted a plan of procedure for presenting the legislative needs of Government workers. The program calls for the restoration of pay and privileges lost through the economy act, equitable classification for the departmental and field service, and optional retirement at the end of 30 years' service.

The committee will consist of two members selected from each District lodge, one of whom will be the president. George L. Jeffrey was appointed committee secretary. Miss Ethel M. Smith is chairman.

That Federal employes must depend on Congress for improvement of working conditions was cited by Miss Mary Anderson, of the Labor Department, at a meeting of the Agriculture Department Lodge. Advantages of affiliation with the American Federation of Labor were pointed out by Michael D. Schaefer, president of the District Department.

Officers of the Commerce Department Lodge were installed yesterday by David R. Glass, president of the federation. They were Miss Fanny P. Lamson, president; Mrs. Mattie R. Leverette, first vice president; Miss Mary L. McGee, second vice president; Charles E. Ridgway, secretary; A. J. Webb, treasurer, and James M. Copeland, sergeant at arms.

COMPANIES OPPOSE STANDARDIZED PLAN FOR UTILITY VALUING

Long Brief Filed Against Roberts' Scheme, Previously Favored.

Washington public utilities are not willing to try any standardized system of valuation, despite promised savings in time, effort and money, they revealed yesterday in an answer and lengthy brief filed in District Supreme Court opposing the plan proposed by William A. Roberts, special counsel of the Public Utilities Commission, early in the summer.

Although representatives of several of the utilities indicated at conferences with Mr. Roberts prior to the filing of the commission ples for instructions that they were favorably impressed by the unique scheme, counsel for the same utilities scoffed in their brief at the idea of changing the old cumbersome and lengthy system of valuating public utilities now followed here and elsewhere.

Several Years Now Required.

The commission had asked the court to set up certain methods of valuating public utility properties so as to eliminate the uncertainty, the longevity, and the litigation which has characterized all past valuation cases. The utilities contend, however, that the court shouldn't consider the proposal at all and should dismiss the petition.

Under the present system the commission and the utilities may spend several years preparing valuation data along different lines only to have the court decide in the final analysis which is correct. Usually the commission prepares two or more sets of figures on certain aspects of the valuation so as to be prepared for the public hearing which precedes the customary litigation.

Mr. Roberts evolved the idea of so simplifying the methods of valuation that the only questions would be questions of fact; thus the likelihood of litigation would be virtually eliminated and the time of working up a valuation case would be considerably reduced.

Examples of Long Process.

As an example of the present system, the valuation of the street railway properties has already consumed two and a half years and has not yet reached the hearing stage. And, as for litigation, the street railway rate case has been in the courts for three years and is scheduled for argument October 5 in the Court of Appeals. It is now likely to be dismissed.

The answer and brief were filed by the Washington Railway & Electric Co., the Capital Traction Co., the Washington Rapid Transit Co., the Washington Gas Light Co., and the Georgetown Gas Light Co. It is presumed that they also represent the views of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., and the Potomac Electric Power Co. These utilities were not specified in the original petition, however, as their properties were not being valuated at the time.
